GEORGE B. KNAPP IS RE-ELECTED CHAMBER HEAD

Commerce Body Not To Act on Community Chest for 1927

REPORT SHOWS PROGRESS

Josiah Bindley Named Chairman of Board, Succeeding Asa C. Queen

Election of executive officers for the ensuing year and decision to take no action on establishing a Community Chest in Marion in 1927 featured the first session of the new board of directors of the Marion Chamber of Commerce, Monday afternoon.

George B. Knapp was re-elected president of the chamber and will continue as executive head of the organization assisted by Miss Mary P. Kelly, who was retained as executive secretary. Mr. Knapp and Miss Kelly have been in charge of the management since the chamber was reorganized early this year.

Josiah Bindley was chosen chairman of the board, succeeding Asa Queen, whose term as a director expired this year. Other officers elected at yesterday's meeting are E. K. Uhler, first vice president; George E. Frank, second vice president and C. E. Merkle, treasurer.

Excellent progress in the work of the chamber during the last year was shown in reports filed regarding the various activities, including efforts to increase Marion's industrial resources.

Agree on Postponement

Agreement to postpone action on the Community Chest proposal was reached after the board was informed that several local charity and public welfare organizations which would be financed from the chest had failed to co-operate in an effort to launch the project this year.

In September the Chamber of Commerce sent a communication to six of these organizations requesting that reports on their receipts and expenditures and estimates on the amounts needed for next year to be submitted. There was no response to several of these requests and for that reason the chamber's board of directors decided to abandon the matter temporarily.

While this action tables the Community Chest proposition for next year as far as Chamber of Commerce leadership is concerned, the directors decided to attempt another survey next summer in preparation for 1928. If local organizations concerned in the matter show a willingness to co-operate at that time, the chamber will proceed with a definite program of action, it was stated today.

"Until all of the organizations interested see fit to submit statements of their finances and activities and to send representatives to sit in conference, the directors of the Chamber of Commerce will not feel justified in going ahead with plans for a Community Chest", one of the directors said today.

Not Committed

In the meantime, Chamber of Commerce officials place emphasis on the fact that their organization has at no time indorsed or advocated a Community Chest and is not committed on the proposal one way or the other. Future action of the chamber, it is stated, will depend entirely upon the attitude of citizens generally and especially of heads of the various char...

FORECAST FIGHT OVER SETTLEMENT OF CLAIMS

Texan Objects to Treasury Plan of Paying American Property Claimants

Washington, Nov. 16—A sharp conflict in congress over the treasury's proposals for settling American and German claims growing out of property seizures during the World War, was forecast as the house ways and means committee continued hearings on the subject today.

The treasury's favored plan, as presented by Under Secretary Winston, calls for an appropriation of $100,000,000 by congress to help pay American claimants whose property was seized by Germany.

Ninety million dollars would come from reparations payments.

Representative John N. Garner, Texas, ranking Democrat on the ways and means committee, declared the proposal meant that American taxpayers would be paying the debt of a foreign government.

He raised the question as to whether the United States was obligated in any way to return German property, held by the alien property custodian, and estimated by Winston to be worth $350,000,000 to $400,000,000. The American private claims total $190,000,000 and the government claims total $60,000,000, Winston said. The United States, alone of the enemies of Germany, has adopted a policy of returning alien property, Winston told the committee.

REFUSE TO ALLOW NURMI TO RUN IN U. S. IN 1927

Application of Drake University Turned Down at A. A. U. Convention

Baltimore, Md., Nov. 16—Paavo Nurmi, Finnish long distance running champion, will not be permitted to run in America next year, the foreign relations committee of the A. A. U. announced here today.

It denied the application of Drake University to bring the fleet Finn there for a meet this winter.

Closing its two-day convention, the association selected Cincinnati for its meeting place in September, 1927.

ADVANCE IN MILK PRICE IS DUE FOR CLEVELAND

Will Be Highest in History, Claim; Shortage Blamed by Association

Cleveland, Nov. 16—The highest prices in history—not excepting war time quotations—will be paid for milk by Cleveland consumers beginning Friday, it was announced here today by J. W. Strong, general manager of the Ohio Farmers' Milk Association.

The announcement followed a meeting last night of directors of the association at which it was decided to advance the price, which now is 15 cents a quart, due to a shortage and inability of wholesalers to meet the demand.

YOUTH HELD UNDER BOND FOR ROBBERY

Pleads Guilty to Participating in Activities That Cost Life of Pal

Bowling Green, Nov. 16—Leroy Waggoner, 20, Toledo, today is held under $5,000 bond to await action of the grand jury on a charge of highway robbery.

When arraigned here yesterday, Waggoner pleaded guilty to having participated in activites which cost the life of his pal, Elmo Borrer, 16, Sunday night, in a gun battle with Sheriff Reitzel.

Waggoner admitted, the justice of peace record shows, that he had aided Borrer in robbing a filling station at Rossford. Friday night, and the attempted robbery of another at Perrysburg Sunday night. It was in the latter attempt that the youths were frustrated and caught up with by Sheriff Reitzel.

Construction Work Under Way on $75,000 Edifice; Started This Summer

This sketch of the proposed First Reformed Church, now being constructed on the site of the old church, S. Prospect-st, was drawn by Architect J. Lewis Ellis.

Building of the edifice was started late this summer at an estimated cost of $75,000.

The new church will cover a frontage of 120 feet, two 60-foot lots having been purchased for its erection. The Sunday School rooms will be completed early in the spring and work on the auditorium will begin at that time. It is expected that the entire building will be ready for services early next fall.

When the Sunday School rooms are completed, church services will be held there and razing of the present church will take place.

The new edifice is being erected on the lots adjoining the parsonage of the First Reformed Church. The parsonage was completed a year ago.

J. Lewis Ellis is the architect and John Baldauf and Sons of this city have the contract for the building.

DRIVE AGAINST TRAFFIC VIOLATORS IS LAUNCHED

Police Announce Plans of Rigidly Enforcing Double Parking Restriction Rule

The local police department has launched a special drive for enforcement of provisions of the city traffic code which prohibit double parking of automobiles on the up-town streets. Violations of the rule have been increasing in number, it is reported, and officers are now acting under instructions to maintain a close watch for offenders and make arrests whenever double parking is discovered.

Arthur F. Reissinger, 618 Catherine-av, accused of violating this section of the traffic code, entered a plea of guilty when he appeared before Maroy Earl M. Hagen, Monday, and paid a fine of $2.

A number of fines for double parking have been levied by the mayor during the last few weeks.

ADMINISTRATION WORKS FOR TAX CUT, IS CLAIM

Coolidge Spokesman Hopes Taxpayers Will Benefit from Treasury Surplus

Washington, Nov. 16—All branches of the administration are working for one common cause in the matter of taxation and that is a reduction whereby the taxpayers may benefit from the surplus which is accruing in the treasury.

This statement was made at the White House today in behalf of President Coolidge to offset what was termed confusion over the various terms, such as rebates, refunds and credit, being used in discussing the probable action of congress at the coming session.

Mr. Coolidge and Secretary of the Treasury Mellon are in harmony on the general proposition that the taxpayers should benefit from the surplus on the last two payments in 1927 of this year's income.

It was reiterated that the president has not undertaken to offer any definite plan, feeling that this is a matter peculiarly up to the house where all financial legislation originates. He assumed that when the ways and means committee ascertains definitely the probable amount of the surplus which will be on hand at the end of the fiscal year, that the committee will then be the best judge as to the form the reduction shall take and the manner in which it shall be put into operation.

BELIEVE MINERS WILL ACCEPT PEACE PROPOSALS

London, Nov. 16—Acceptance by the miners of the government's peace proposals in the long coal strike was believed to be virtually assured today.

The miners of Scotland, Northumberland, Yorkshire, Lancashire and South Wales voted for acceptance, a count of the ballots showed today.

The combined vote from these districts is large enough to determine the issue.

DONAHEY TOLD CAUSES OF CRIME BY BOARD

Breaking of Three Commandments Especially Blamed in Report Filed

Columbus, Nov. 16—Freedom, leisure, prosperity, divorces, lack of law enforcement in the well-to-do circles, mixing of the races, and violation of the three of the Ten Commandments are largely responsible for crime, according to the annual report of the State Clemency Board on file with Governor Donahey's office here today.

The report went into details on the crime situation in Ohio, going back as far as 1912.

Relative to the enforcement of laws, it said there was no lack of efficiency where the poor and friendless are concerned, but declared conviction of the well-to-do was less than 15 per cent.

It was shown that 30 per cent of prisoners were colored; 34 per cent of those convicted of murder were colored, and a like percentage of those who paid the supreme penalty were colored.

"Ninety per cent of crime is due to breaking the commandments, 'Thou shalt not kill, steal, or commit adultery,'" the report said.

"Many murders are due to divorces or grounds leading to them. The increase in crime has kept apace of divorces. There are close relations between the two," said Dan Williams, who compiled the report.

The report showed about one-twelfth of the inmates are serving sentences for homicide; 206 convicted of first degree murder; 302 of second, and 281 for manslaughter. Since 1912, the report showed only 73 have been executed.

American Ambassador Returning to His Post in Mexico Next Week

Washington, Nov. 16—James R. Sheffield, American ambassador to Mexico, who is returning to his post next week, has the full confidence and support of President Coolidge, it was declared at the White House today.

Sheffield has insisted upon a vigorous policy in dealing with Mexico on the oil and land laws controversy.

The presidential spokesman and Secretary of State Kellogg declined to comment on Mexico's reported suggestion that the differences between the two governments be referred to The Hague court for adjustment.

Local officials declared today that they believed a spark from a wheel had ignited mine gas, causing the detonation.

MARION ABOUT TO ENTER UPON PROSPERITY ERA

Experienced Observers Claim City Industrial Future Very Bright

TRACE DEVELOPMENT

Alloy Cast Steel Co. Credited with Starting Optomisic Movement

Predictions that Marion is about to enter upon one of the most prosperous periods in in its history have passed far beyond the stage where they are based on mere guess work and hopeful sentiment.

This is the firm belief of experienced observers of local business and industrial conditions in commenting upon developments of the last few weeks and upon the present situation, which is regarded as vastly more promising than that prevailing during the early winter months of the last several years.

Marion's movement toward a new era of expansion began several months ago, it is pointed out, with organization of the Alloy Cast Steel Co. and the Marion Excavator Co. to take over the Fairbanks Steam Shovel Co., which had been left dormant when the Fairbanks Co. ceased operations.

Since that time, all signs and developments in local business and industrial circles have followed a favorable and upward trend. There had been no occasion for alarm over the local situation prior to the opening of the expansion period, local business authorities say, but it is admitted that an atmosphere akin to depression had been created by the pessimistic attitude taken by some groups of citizens.

No Unusual Slump

At no time did fundamental conditions here reach a point where there was actual cause for this pessimism, it is asserted. Reports that 500 or more houses were vacant throughout the city were possibly not overdrawn to any great extent but even if true this situation did not indicate an unusual slump, according to statements of local real estate dealers. It is maintained that 500 vacancies is about the normal number for a city the size of Marion and that when below that figure it can be taken for granted that conditions here are better than the average.

The number of vacant dwellings is far below the 500 mark now and with new industries coming in and the factories already here maintaining large production, there is possibility that next year may find a scarcity of rental properties prevailing.

Pronounced Impetus

Recent announcement that the Chamber of Commerce had closed negotiations for moving the Gardner Tap & Die Co. plant from Cleveland to this city added pronounced impetus to increasing certainty of the forward movement in Marion next year. Other developments indicative of marked activity toward business expansion are construction of the new building of the S. S. Kresge Co. on W. Center-st, leasing of the Busby Block at Center & Prospect-sts by the W. T. Grant Co., another big chain store corporation, leasing the Salter building on S. Main-st by representatives of the Kleinman Bros. clothing firm, and starting of construction work on additions to the Lemon Furniture Co. building on W. Co...

Eleven Others Injured; Dragging Guns Through Fences Causes Most Tragedies

Cleveland, Nov. 16—The first day of the rabbit hunting season in Ohio claimed a toll of five lives, and at least 11 other persons were injured, according to reports here today.

In most cases, hunters were injured by the hazardous practice of dragging shotguns through fences, muzzles first, after them.

Those killed were:

Donald Brown 22, of Lima; Frank Bell, 23, of Steubenville; Charles B. Towne, 68, of Toledo; John Array, 18, of Toledo, and Carl Meuzer, 34, of Crestline.

BANDITS STAGE RUNNING BATTLE WITH POLICEMAN

Cincinnati, Nov. 16—Police today were searching for four bandits, who, interrupted by a burglar alarm while trying to force the door of G. W. More than 20 shots were fired when the patrolman and watchman, brought to the scene by the sounding of the alarm, gave chase to the frustrated bandits. No captures were made.

FIRE DESTROYS BARN

D. R. Crissinger Is Main Speaker At Bankers' Meeting

Governor of Federal Reserve Board and Former Marion Man Addresses Afternoon Session of District Conference at Hotel Harding

MORE THAN 200 FROM NINE COUNTIES PRESENT

Speaker Points Way to Improvement in Service and Cites Benefits Resulting from Establishment of Federal Reserve System

AN address by D. R. Crissinger, former Marion man who is governor general of the Federal Reserve Board with headquarters in Washington, opened the annual convention of Group Six of the Ohio Bankers' Association at Hotel Harding this afternoon.

More than 200 representatives of banks in the nine counties comprising the district are attending the meeting, which will close tonight following a six o'clock dinner.

Mr. Crissinger's address, given at 2 o'clock this afternoon, was on the subject, "Do Banks Serve the Public?"

Referring chiefly to technical banking problems, the Federal Reserve Board chief discussed the present financial situation and the record of progress made since 1914, when the Federal Reserve system became effective.

While there has been remarkable advancement in organization and co-ordination of the nation's financial institutions under the new system, it is apparent that there are some steps which could be taken by bankers to improve their service to the public, Mr. Crissinger pointed out.

Benefits resulting from the Federal Reserve plan were cited, the Governor's address showing that these benefits extend to non-member banks as well as those affiliated with the system.

The nine counties making up Group Six and represented at today's convention are Ashland, Crawford, Erie, Huron, Knox, Marion, Morrow Richland and Wyandot.

Following Mr. Crissinger's talk, the remainder of the afternoon was taken up with a business session and election of officers.

Following dinner at 6 o'clock there is to be a program consisting of an invocation by Rev. B. L. George, pastor of Epworth M. E. Church, address of welcome by Fred E. Guthery president of the National City Bank & Trust Co., response by W. A. Blicke, president of the Bucyrus City Bank, and an address by William A. Ackerman of Mt. Vernon, president of the Ohio Bankers' Association.

A. B. Whitney, president of the Citizens Savings Bank of Upper Sandusky, chairman of the Group Six organization, is in charge of the convention sessions. L. D. Zuchman of Marion, cashier of the National City Bank & Trust Co., is secretary of Group Six.

MEXICO INVITES U. S. TO TAKE CASE BEFORE HAGUE

Decision Is Made at Conference of Calles, Obregon and Others

Mexico City, Nov. 16—The forthcoming reply of the Mexican government to the latest note from Washington regarding Mexico's petroleum and land laws will invite the United States to take its complaints if any, regarding Mexican legislation, to The Hague Permanent Court of International Justice, it was learned today.

The decision to invite the United States to go before The Hague tribunal was reached at a cabinet conference at Chapultepec Castle on Sunday. At this conference, President Calles, former President Obregon, Foreign Minister Aaron Saenz and Gonzales Roa, who represented Mexico on the mixed claims commission, all agreed that while it would be impossible to sponsor legislation at the behest of the American State Department, Mexico, secure in the righteousness of her position, would offer to meet the United States before The Hague court should the State Department decide that American rights were insufficiently protected by Mexico's laws.

Mexico would pledge herself to regard a decision by The Hague court as final, it was said.

CARL STUDER TO BE QUIZZED AT CANTON

Investigation of Alleged Liquor And Narcotic Conspiracies Being Made by Grand Jury

Cleveland, Nov. 16—A subpoena was issued today by U. S. District Attorney A. E. Bernstein for Carl Studer, formerly identified with an underworld group at Canton, Ohio, now serving a sentence in the state penitentiary for having conducted a house of ill-fame.

Studer, it is understood, will be questioned by a grand jury which is to investigate alleged liquor and narcotic conspiracies at Canton. He was arrested and questioned several weeks ago when the investigation into the murder of Don R. Mellett, Canton publisher, was at its height.

RED CROSS ROLL CALL NOT UP TO EXPECTATIONS

Returns In Business Section Only $500 Up to Noon Today

Mrs. George B. Geran, acting chairman of the Marion County Chapter, Red Cross, stated this morning that the uptown of business district drive was falling below expectations.

The returns up to noon today did not total over $500. This sum, according to Mrs. Geran, was about $1,000 under the estimate. Basing her calculations on the morning returns made by the women of the Federated Clubs, the acting chairman declared that the business drive would not net over $2,000 and that this amount was approximately $2,000 under the estimate.

Fred B. Scheiff and John A. Schroeter began an intensive campaign in the factories of the city yesterday. Returns from this division of the Tenth Annual Roll Call were not available today.

In concluding her statement regarding the progress of the Marion County Chapter's Roll Call this morning, Mrs. Geran mentioned the fact that the Red Cross drive was necessary at this time due to a lack of funds and that it was impossible to await action on the proposed community chest.

At the meeting this morning between Mrs. Geran and Clifford B. Stoll, general roll call chairman, a statement was made public that the Red Cross would

Only Year Shaw Rests He Wins Writing Prize

LONDON, Nov. 16 (By Universal Service)—George Bernard Shaw, dramatist who delights in using the surprise of paradox, has come one of the most paradoxical surprises of the day. He has received the 1925 Nobel prize for literature, approximately $35,000. And he spent but a line in 1925!

It virtually was the only year in his pen was idle in 55 years.

But in London literary circles it is said the prize was awarded for "St. Joan," Shaw's play on Joan of Arc, written in 1923, and which in 1925 was being performed in many countries.

Shaw was 70 last July, having been born in Dublin in 1856, and for a generation has been accepted as a dramatist whose name alone insures a "draw." It is, therefore, little known or has been forgotten that Shaw worked to past middle age to get a hearing. Plays of his that are successful now in New York and London were written 20 or 30 years ago.

Helped by Mother

A Socialist, with an unbending point of view, he struggled in London for a score of years against odds that probably would have broken the spirit of any man. His mother helped him. She supported him and his sister for years by giving music lessons.

Then, to provide a living for himself while he wrote, he became a dramatic and music critic. And here he met his first paradox. His reviews gained him more fame than the novels he tried to write—and, instead of a novelist, he became a dramatist.

These plays, which later were to earn Shaw hundreds of thousands of dollars, found no market, even among the art theater groups friendly to this revolutionary writer.

Those were difficult days for Shaw. But they only added fire to his Socialistic traits. His plays became more gleefully sardonic. His jabs at public figures became sharper, more revealing.

Gradual Success

Success came gradually—after the man had passed 50. And after the 60 mark was passed, his income became so large, he could afford to toss aside a million-dollar movie offer with: "I should not know what to do with the money." He has refused to sell any of his plays for pictures, it may be remarked, believing their essence and wit would be lost.

And now when the prize money means nothing much in a material way—it comes as a reward for a half century's writing. So it must seem to Shaw.

"What shall you do with the money?" Shaw was asked.

"None of the public's business," was the response. But it is known that the man who probably has been the chief critic of the British government in modern times invests a large part of his income in government bonds. Which is only another Shaw paradox.

GETS "WARM" SWITCHING

B. & O. YARD FOREMAN SWITCHES ON MAIN TRACK

His Wife Declares His Appetite Was on a "Siding" Before He Took Tepee Herb Tonic.

Before B. D. King, yard foreman of the B. & O. railroad at Lima, O., took Tepee Herb Tonic his appetite was off. It was like a freight car on a siding—there was no power behind it.

He also had other ailments, his kidneys didn't work properly, he had a pain in his back, many attacks of headaches and felt tired and worn out.

But since he has been taking Tepee Herb Tonic, an old Indian medicine, he has a different story to tell. His appetite is/now on the main track and moving fast and his other ills have left him.

Mr. King resides at 812 E. Second street. In regard to his experience with Tepee Herb Tonic his wife says:

"My husband had a very poor appetite. He couldn't eat enough to keep up his strength. His liver was sluggish and he was constipated. He often complained about having a headache.

"His kidneys were not active enough to carry the poison out of his system. He had a pain in his back almost constantly.

"He took Tepee Herb Tonic and you never saw such a change in a man. He eats ravenously and enjoys his food because he knows he is not going to have an attack of indigestion. He is so much stronger that his work in the yard does not tire him.

"His kidneys are acting normally and he is no longer troubled with that pain in his back. His liver is active and he is not constipated.

"I feel that I would not be doing right if I failed to tell about my husband's experience with Tepee Herb Tonic for it is surely a splendid medicine."

Tepee Herb Tonic may be had in Marion at Bradley's, Henney & Cooper's, Wm. M. Stump, Bartlett's and all drug stores. Richwood, H. D. Kyle.—Adv.

Erie Railroad Veterans' Association to Hold Next Meeting in Marion Jan. 16

Enrollment in Recently Organized Body Reaches 140; Association Formed Here Six Weeks Ago with 50 Charter Members

... quarterly meeting of the ... Veterans' Association ... in this city, Jan. 16, 1927, ... announced today.

... now 140 members in the ... the veterans' association, ... agent of the Marion Erie ... said today, and this number ... to increase within the next ...

The association was organized here six weeks ago with 50 men joining as charter members at the first meeting. Since that date, 90 members have been added to the list.

The Erie Veterans' Association over the entire railroad system is continually growing and has reached the 2,500 mark, according to records shown at the last quarterly meeting held at Jamestown, N. Y., recently. Its goal is 3,000 members.

President C. L. Edinger of the association will preside at the meeting here in January and has announced that he expects the goal of 3,000 to be reached by that time.

A style of button recommended by a committee for members of 65 or more years' service has been adopted by the organization.

Local Man Speaks

A. L. Conrad, agent of the Erie transfer in this city, made the chief address at the banquet of the Erie Freight Agents Association at the Hotel Lafonte, Huntington, Ind., Friday night.

Mr. Conrad, with R. G. Henry, Erie station supervisor of Marion; J. R. Heuney, Erie freight agent of this city, and A. R. Tennis, division freight agent of the Kent Division, Erie Railroad, were in attendance at the convention of the Erie freight agents, held at Huntington Friday and Saturday.

During the afternoon session Friday, B. R. Mark, Erie agent at the Fourteenth st station, Chicago, was elected president of the organization for the coming year. J. W. Ramsey, agent at Weehawken, N. J., was elected vice president, and E. R. Allen of Jamestown, N. Y., was named secretary. Ramsey was also chosen head of the executive committee.

Track Ready

Effective at noon yesterday, the new track of the Wabash Portland Cement Co., at Osborn, O., was ordered ready for use by the Erie Railroad.

The present main track entering this plant has been moved east 1,700 feet and the new siding has been constructed to hold 35 cars.

In West Salem

J. D. Sifritt, coal accountant of the Kent Division, Erie Railroad, was in West Salem on business yesterday.

On Roll of Honor

Adam Kreisher, a section laborer, gained a place on the Erie roll of honor this month when he discovered a broken rail on Section 22, near Wren, while resurfacing track.

The broken rail was due to a transverse fissure, in the eastbound track, and as the fracture was only in the ball of the rail it did not cause the signal to go to "danger." Mr. Kreisher's alertness in discovering and reporting the defect probably averted a derailment.

Lines Tied

The "on time" record of the public service commission of the state of New York for July shows the Erie and Pennsylvania tied for second place with 90.3 percent.

IT'S SAFETY FIRST

Chicago, Nov. 16—Safety first is the policy of Chicago's gang harassed citizenry. Louis Bruzro, slightly under the influence of alcohol, bumped against the door of the home of Edward Goetz, 80. Thinking a burglary was being attempted, Goetz fired a shot through the door, wounding Bruzro in the leg.

HERE'S A FAST ONE

Orange, N. J., Nov. 16—Harold Goodwin, held on complaint of his wife, attempted suicide in a police cell here last night by swallowing his collar buttons, cuff buttons, such buttons as he could detach from his clothing and a box of matches. He said he was despondent because his wife didn't love him. He will recover.

FILM STAR WEDS DIRECTOR

Hollywood, Cal., Nov. 16—The movie colony's record for 1926 was augmented when Laura La Plante, screen star, and William A. Seiter, director, were married here. Many famous movies names have been merged during the last year, the most recent being that of Lew Cody and Mabel Normand.

INDIANS DEDICATE STADIUM WITH WAR DANCE

Hoop-la, the Redskins are out for scalps again! But only in athletic contests this time. With thousands of Indians celebrating—one of the chief events a war dance contest—a $250,000 stadium at Haskell Institute, Lawrence, Kansas, now is duly dedicated and is ready for "warfare." The stadium was built by money contributed by Indians in virtually every reservation—among the contributions being two of $15,000 each, from Osages who have struck it rich in Oklahoma oil.

Newton, N. J., Nov. 16—Alice Padgett thought she was lucky Saturday when she found a dime on her way to school. She was certain of it Sunday when a numismatist told her the dime, coined by Maryland in 1787, was worth about $300.

THE MARION BUICK COMPANY
BUICK SALES AND SERVICE
235 East Center Street.

MARION, OHIO.

November 15, 1926

J. L. PRICE,
Manager.

The Marion Buick Co.,
Marion, Ohio.

Gentlemen:

After completing my drive of 1121½ hours, I surely want to compliment you on the Buick Car. I have owned five Buicks in the last five years, and I can safely say that the new 1927 Buick is far superior to anything I have ever driven.

I drove with the utmost ease at all times. It handles so easily that any driver can drive without fear of fatigue. I, myself, was surprised at the mileage per gallon of gas. I drove 1,567 miles, on 82 gallons of gas, which is 19.1 miles per gallon and you want to remember that much driving was done at forward and backward driving, that is, rocking the car back and forth for many minutes at a time. This, too, was hard on the clutch, but I know from the touch that the clutch is in perfect condition.

Now that you are going to sell the car, I want to say this, that the buyer of this car will get a car that is broken in more perfectly than any car the average man will break in, because of the engine never having been driven fast and having been kept under continuous heat without allowing the motor to cool.

I want to say this about the accident I had, the car was not hurt in any way because I was driving very slowly when I went into the ditch, only the wright of the car bent the fender, and the phonograph broke the window. The car is in perfect shape now, as a new fender was put on and a new glass placed in the window.

Very truly yours,
C. E. ("Tireless Bud") Bradley.

Would You Like To own Bud Bradley's Car?

It will go to the highest bidder next Saturday Evening. Sealed bids only will be considered. This car carries a new car guarantee, has a new set of tires, and an engine broken in as very few cars in Marion have ever been—1500 miles at slow speed without a stop—ideal conditions for any motor.

Daily Proverb—"Aristippus being asked what he learned by philosophy replied 'To live well with all the world.'"

Things seems to be moving a lot more smoothly on her train since Marie got rid of the excess baggage.

The thing which made that story about a drunken pig being jailed down in Kentucky out of the ordinary was that it was a real, for-sure pig.

It's a wonder some of those cities at a loss to know how to handle their traffic problems have never investigated how New Brunswick takes care of hers over De Russey lane.

Democrats appear to be as scarce in some Pennsylvania precincts as Republicans in the average precinct of the Solid South.

A news item says the United States navy wants more money. There can no longer be question; those navy people are regular fellows.

If Mussolini really plans to maroon his enemies on small islands, he'd better corner the available supply before island realty prices start to boom.

Of course, Roumania is a long way off, but something tells us Marie's front doorstep is going to be pretty well worn by the time all of us make our return visits.

If the matrimonial sea is all young Leopold anticipated, the least he could do would be to wire the Prince of Wales: "Come on in, the water's fine."

A well-known news service has a sporting writer reporting the Hall-Mills murder trial, which, come to think of it, isn't so far out of the way at that, considering all the circumstances and the way the case has been handled.

About the only explanation of the thing we can imagine is that the Hall-Mills murderers figured that they could lose themselves in the crowd.

Queen Marie says she would like to visit some American home incognito. All right, Marie; come along. Our better half has just put up new drapes in the guest room and had the curtains laundered.

So far as we are able to glean, the nearest anybody out in Herrin comes to dying a natural death is to be shot as a result of mistaken identity.

It must be understood, of course, that Chicago's proposed celebration of her centennial in 1933 is predicated on the possibility that the gangsters and bandits up there have left any of her by that time to celebrate.

Up to date, so far as is known, De Russey lane has been the scene of but three murders, but when it comes to the matter of reputations shattered its victims seem to be almost countless.

It must have dawned upon Magnus Johnson by this time that, while the people of Minnesota have, in the past, shown a willingness to send him to Washington, they want him to remain just as inconspicuous as possible while at home.

Then again, that Pennsylvania couple so anxious to entertain the Countess Karolyi could just as easily entertain her in their chateau over in France, and a sight easier—if we are to judge by the present sensible attitude of our state department.

Speaking of Hara-Kiri.

A few days ago the members of a Japanese reactionary organization, the Kamiya Kei-seisha, sent to the residence of Premier Watatsuki, of Japan, a small pine coffin containing, a dagger in a white scabbard on a ceremonial tray, such a dagger as is given to a Samurai—the highest caste in Japan—with which to commit hara-kiri when he violates a promise or in any other way brings discredit upon himself.

This action followed the filing of charges by a former minister of communications that the premier had attempted to move the "licensed quarter" of Osaka to Lant, the owner of which is alleged to have promised to divide profits with the premier.

The charges made may be false, may be due to the venom of a disappointed office-seeker. It may be that Japanese thought and sentiment has undergone a change during the last decade. But had such a presentation been made to a member of the Samurai in olden days and he been guilty, there is no question but what he would have taken his life in the sickening way indicated by the hara-kiri rite. In some cases members of the Samurai of old have been known to take their lives even when wrongfully accused, feeling that they could not live after even an imputation against their honor. Hardly a cheerful custom, that. Were it to obtain the world over in this day and age public office would have been little allure. And think what the dagger and small coffin industry would be at times, particularly during the heat of a political campaign!

The Port Huron Spirit.

In connection with the observance of Armistice day two incidents have come to our attention which were so far out of the ordinary that we deem them worthy of special mention.

The first was the entertainment of a large number of former German soldiers by the members of Franklin Post, No. 1, American Legion, at Memorial hall, in Columbus, the former German soldiers being ex-service men who have immigrated to the United States and settled in the state capital since the treaty of peace between the United States and Germany was signed and ratified.

The second was the dedication of a flag pole at Port Huron Michigan, the dedicatory exercises originally planned for Armistice day having been carried over until Sunday, in which Protestants and Catholics, Hebrews and Gentiles, whites and blacks, Americans and Canadians participated.

A number of threats against Dr. Russell H. Bready, pastor of the First Methodist church of Port Huron, and Monsignor Patrick H. Dunnigan, a World war chaplain, had been made because of the former's selection of the latter to make the dedicatory address. The flag pole had been presented to the church by a Jew, and the flag used was the gift of William Jennings Bryan chapter of the Ku Klux Klan.

To the gathering of 10,000 present, which was not marred by the slightest dissension, the Methodist pastor said:

"In the ceremonies today I find the culmination of all that I have worked for here in Michigan. It is the proudest moment of my life. There has never occurred in this or any other age anything so significant from a religious standpoint. It is a milestone which foretells many things to come."

Then the pole was presented by its Hebrew donor and the flag presented by the Ku Klux Klan was brought forward by a veteran of the civil war, the pole was dedicated by the Roman Catholic prelate, and the flag slowly raised to the top of the pole by a negro veteran of the World war. Monsignor Dunnigan then eulogized the dead of the wars of 1861 and 1838 and of the A. E. F. His eulogy was followed by "taps" and the singing of "The Star-Spangled Banner," and all the civic, fraternal, religious and service organizations, escorted by city police and soldiery of both the United States and Canada, marched to the municipal building and there the parade disbanded.

We like the spirit shown by the members of Franklin post of Columbus. Their former German service men guests were their foes in times of war because they were soldiers, serving as such and acting under orders, but they are so no longer, and the sooner wartime foes forgive and forget, the better it will be for humanity.

We like the spirit of the Port Huron Methodist pastor, and the unquestioned moral courage he displayed in arranging his dedicatory program and the physical courage both he and the Catholic orator of the day displayed in carrying it through, despite threats of bodily harm. We like the Jewish donor of the flag pole for his initiative and the spirit of the Ku Klux Klan in coming forward and presenting the flag. The sooner the whole country can be swayed by the Port Huron spirit, the better it will be for our land.

Up to a late hour this afternoon there had been nothing to indicate that Jack Dempsey will insist upon a return match before the end of the vaudeville season.

To Talk to Sunken Submarines.

The British admiralty, a London cable says, is testing and considering the adoption of a device for locating and communicating with submarines which are disabled under water and unable to rise to the surface under their own power.

The invention, which is that of a Britisher, consists of a buoy which, when not in use, is attached to the conning tower of the submarine. In case of accident, the buoy can be released and, being filled with compressed air, will rise quickly to the surface and there float, affording communication between the sunken vessel and the surface by the cable which it carries up with it, the buoy being equipped with a telephone by means of which the imprisoned men and rescuers may talk with each other. The buoy also carries rockets, a lighting apparatus and a signal bell by means of which to attract the attention of vessels within the sound of the bell by day and within range of the light by night.

The invention, if it will do all that is claimed for it, will prove of immense value in locating disabled and sunken submarines, and, when rescue is at all possible, should greatly enhance by thus saving time the chances of the escape of their crews. It is one step in the direction of lessening the horror which must be experienced by those imprisoned below the surface of the sea and unable to send out a call for help or notify rescuers near at hand of their position.

The difficult thing for us to figure out is what Mr. Mussolini is going to do when he can not think of any more restrictive measures to pass.

Vagrant Verse.

THE POINT OF VIEW.

I am a widow, but not in black:
I'm edging into gray
With a touch of mauve. It's three years now
Since Danny went away.
Three years asleep . . . he who deplored
The closing of a day.

I carry my face about with me
Just where a real face ought to be;
My eyes are shadowed, hair gone gray—
Quite interesting, they say.
I eat, I sleep, I have no care,
I'm free to go most anywhere;
I talk of this, I laugh at that;
A man or two has called and sat
Even in Danny's chair.

I never cry . . .
Well . . . why should I—
I am, they tell me, game.
I take whatever's handed me—
An illness or a legacy
Or a slice of lemon with my tea—
They're just about the same.

But I've a funny theory,
Which I'll confide to you—
I sometimes get it in my head
That I am sleeping in Danny's stead,
That he's alive and I am dead . . .
It's all in the point of view.

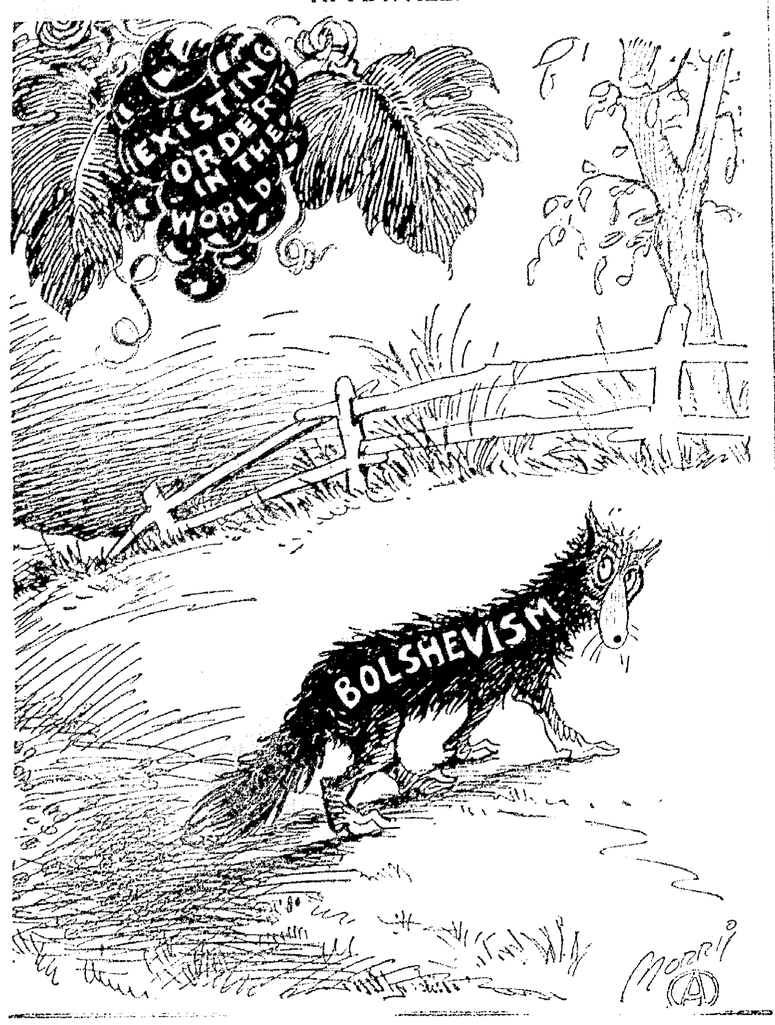
THE FOX: "OH, WELL! MAY BE THEY ARE SOUR GRAPES AFTER ALL."



Eye Operation Holds Fresh Hope.

BY ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.
United States Senator from New York.
Former Commissioner of Health, New York City.

Not long ago I wrote something about detachment of the retina. In that article it was stated that operative measures may be necessary. Since its publication I have had letters from everywhere making inquiry about the operation and its hope of relieving the condition.

Unless the retina retains its natural position in the eye there can be no vision. At least, the sight will be distorted and impaired.

The retina is like the glass at the back of the camera. Upon this the picture is focused. Unless the photographic plate is located exactly in this field, the picture is blurred or not made at all.

The retina is a thin, delicate membrane, loosely attached to the structures back of it. It is supported and held in this position by the "vitreous humor," the jelly-like and transparent substance filling the chamber of the eye.

If something happens to lessen the pressure of the vitreous humor, or to break up the rather feeble attachments holding the retina, that membrane may fall away. Then it drops into the bottom of the eye. This serious trouble is called detachment of the retina.

A blow on the eyeball may produce bleeding, even though it be slight bleeding, back of the retina. The blood spreads out as it does under the finger nail when it is injured. This causes the retina to be pushed away from its bed and if the bleeding is extensive enough may result in partial or complete detachment.

You can see that a small growth in this region might push the retina out of place. Detachment is some times due to a trouble of this sort.

Whether the delicate membrane can be replaced depends on the cause and also upon its being treated early enough. Rest in bed has given relief in a very few cases, but unless rather heroic measures are employed, treatment is likely to fail.

An eminent English eye surgeon, Dr. Treacher Collins, of the London Ophthalmic hospital, made use of the electro-cautery in these cases. For this purpose a needle-like cautery point was employed. It was heated, not to a white heat, but to a cherry red.

The outside soft tissues of the eye were incised and separated. The cautery was permitted to sear its way through the tough envelope of the eyeball and into the space back of the retina. This permitted the imprisoned fluids to escape, and also set up enough inflammation to bind down the retina, retaining it in place.

It must be admitted that many times the operation failed, but in some instances the results were brilliant. In exactly the right type of case it is well worth trying. The doctor who knows all about the particular patient must decide this.

BY GROVE PATTERSON.

Much of the peril of the streets comes from delivery cars driven by very young men. Perhaps they are forced to hurry by the nature of their business. Perhaps they are just thoughtless and exceedingly full of "pep." Largely on the fault of the consumer. Impatient, he can not wait for his goods. Delay irritates him. The plea is communicated all down the line. And delivery car drivers break the speed laws, put lives in danger, make the streets unsafe for everybody.

It would be wise if we who buy goods would demand safety as a part of service.

The winner of the "Patriot's Flag Creed," who wrote a little essay judged to be the best of thousands in the American legion's contest, is a lad whose father and mother were born in one of the Slavic countries of Europe. This lad is a good American—one of the best. No relative of his came over in the Mayflower. Probably no kin of his ever heard of the Mayflower. But this son of an alien appreciates a land founded on the ideal of self-government and a fair amount of liberty for all under law.

Some of the Americanism which comes closest to 100 per cent. is grown in the hearts of transplanted people.

The late Victor Lawson, owner of the Chicago Daily News, a really great journalist, lived by this maxim: "Be cautious in laying plans, bold in execution."

Plenty of us are bold enough in execution, but when the settlement comes we have not been cautious in laying plans. Our program is "half-cocked." Our policy is nothing but a series of violent gestures. Others of us lay plans with caution, but when the time comes we lack the courage to act in an out-and-out way.

The combination of courage and caution is really the smartest combination of which man is capable. And it is exceedingly rare.

Here is a story about apples that is not apple-sauce. A young man in Maine picked twenty-seven barrels of apples in a day of eight hours. Do you know of anybody who ever picked more? It is worth while to be able to do any one thing better than anybody else. There are more important things than picking apples, and yet it takes brains as well as nimble fingers. But whatever you specialize in, the principle is the same. Keen at the thing you want to do until you do it in a way that is distinctly better. Do it so well that folks will have to come to you and pay high when they want it done.

You hear much talk about jobs, trades and professions being over-crowded. There is no such thing as over-crowding. The mediocre crowd each other, it is true. But the supremely expert stands by himself.

Who's Who and Why.

HUGH S. WALPOLE.

Hugh Seymour Walpole, English novelist, who is now touring the United States, likes Americans better the more he sees them. And the more he sees of the pure physical America the more he wonders how the Americans stand the pace set for them. There is too much life on this side of the water, he says. Life is too fluid and things won't "stay put."

Walpole was born in 1884, the son of the Bishop of Edinburgh. He was educated at King's school at Canterbury and Emmanuel college at Cambridge. He served with the Russian Red Cross during the World war, 1914-16, for which he was awarded the Georgian medal. He was admitted to the Companion Order of the British Empire in 1918.

His publications include: The Wooden Horse, 1909; Maradick at Forty, 1910; Mr. Perrin and Mr. Traill, 1911; The Prelude to Adventure, 1912; Fortitude, 1913; The Duchess of Wrexe, 1914; The Golden Scarecrow, 1915; The Dark Forest, 1916; The Green Mirror, 1918; The Secret City, 1919, for which he was awarded the Tait Black prize; Captives, 1920; The Thirteen Travelers, 1921; The Cathedral, 1922; The Old Ladies, 1924, and Portrait of a Man with Red Hair, 1925.

His chief recreations are walking and talking, spending much of his time lecturing. He belongs to the Athenaeum, Garrick, Beefsteak and Bucks clubs.

Canine Intelligence.

[J. Ranken Towse in Scribner's.]

In my English home, many years ago, there were two dogs, who were almost inseparable companions. One, a fine bull-terrier, a veritable Hotspur, feared nothing; the other, a thoroughbred Skye, was a bit of a phenomenon in his way, for, though alert and inquisitive as most of his tribe, he was an ardent and shameless coward. He would hunt rats enthusiastically, but could not be induced to tackle them. He insulted every dog he met, and then fled ignominiously, trusting to his fleetness of foot. With the bull in attendance he was of course, assured of efficient protection. But occasionally he made excursions on his own account. And sometimes he fell into peril. On one occasion he was chased home by a big yellow dog who could have made short work of him. Soon afterward I saw him and the bull-terrier apparently in close colloquy. Presently they started off together and I, out of curiosity, followed them. By their actions they were evidently tracking the yellow dog, whom they found sunning himself in front of the village public house. Instantly the bull had him by the throat and would unquestionably soon have killed him had I not interfered. No case could easily be clearer. The Skye had sought out his champion, had somehow informed him of what had happened, and invoked his assistance. How he could possibly have done so, except by some sort of intelligent speech, I leave for others to determine. I can only set down the unvarnished facts.

Some Questions of Interest Asked and Answered.

Q. If Queen Marie is the first queen to be received by a president of the United States, why wasn't the queen of the Belgians received when in Washington? G. I.

A. President Wilson was in office during the visit of the King and queen of the Belgians, and was too ill to receive them.

Q. What is the largest electric-driven ship in the world? F. C. B.

A. The J. W. Van Dyke, of the Atlantic Refining company, is said to the largest. This ship was formerly the Shipping boards steamship, Allentown.

• • •

Q. How long have some of the well known varieties of apples been raised? T. M.

A. The Baldwin apple was raised near Lowell, Massachusetts, about 1750. The Jonathan and Northern Spy were grown in New York, the Grimes Golden in West Virginia, and the Maiden Blush in various places, before 1800. The Red Astrachan was imported from Russia in 1835, the Rome Beauty was grown in Ohio by 1848, the Stayman Winesap appeared in Kansas in 1866, and the Delicious in Iowa in 1895.

• • •

Q. How small may a circular saw be and still retain its rigidity? W. D.

A. The smallest circular saw in the world now in actual use is a tiny disc less than a fourth of an inch in diameter used in the Fifield jewelry establishment for setting gold pens. It is about the fineness of a sheet of writing paper and revolves at the rate of 4,000 revolutions a minute. The high velocity keeps the saw rigid notwithstanding its thinness.

• • •

Q. What are "overhead" expenses? D. T.

A. Speaking in general terms, by overhead is meant those items of general expense of a manufacturing plant which are additional to the cost of the labor and materially actually entering into the production of the plant. For example, under overhead it is usual to group salaries of officials, and clerical and other employes not directly concerned in producing, office expenses, all indirect labor, traveling expenses of salesmen, interest, insurance, legal expenses, care of plant; depreciation also frequently is included under such head.

• • •

Q. How fast do the black and white warbler and the gray checked thrush fly? A. J. C.

A. The black and white warbler is the slowest of the North American birds, averaging only twenty miles a day while the gray checked thrush makes a 4,000 mile trip in thirty days.

A. Sullivan died at Abington, Massachusetts, February 2, 1918.

• • •

Q. Why are the tides higher in the Bay of Fundy than anywhere else? L. B.

A. The high tides of the Bay of Fundy are due largely to its configuration. It will be found that bays which open wide to the sea, but narrow towards their ends, generally exhibit this phenomenon.

New York Day by Day.

BY O. O. M'INTYRE.

New York, Nov. 16—The New York stage is offering odd crystallisations of life this season. Last season was bad enough and this season seems worse, but there is high technique in their presentation. Psychopathic studies in hands of artists.

A Lesbian theme dominated one play, another a dying man is restored to health by the gaiety of his loquacious and amorous nurse. She takes charge of him while his patient drudge of a wife sits outside the door rolling her handkerchief into an aching ball.

Censors have made no effort to bring about a pruning of shuddery abberations. Such plays are far outweighed in aesthetic interest by morbid curiosity. The circumlocutions of Lombroso and Freud were not enough. Whole cregs of psychological depths are revealed.

Audiences go nightly to be dragged by the hair. And apparently they enjoy it for such plays linger in our midst. In one a half-witted brain sick heroine experiments with one paramour after another and submits her every theorizing to the audience.

Some producers excuse it as "an eagerness for reality." Those who were brought up on "Shore Acres" and similar saccharine fare call it smut—and likely hide away in a balcony seat to see. It is not entertainment for squeamish nerves or weak stomachs.

There is the story of one cultured man who took his dinner guests to a play they unanimously desired to see with the provision that they must pledge yourselves not to discuss it afterward in my presence." He was not a prude but ———.

It is obvious deduction that these degenerate dramas are responsible for the whooping success of hilarious farces. Fed up on them audiences have turned to broad and clean humor with enthusiasm—which is after all a hopeful sign.

The famous "Spanish Flats" overlooking Central park on the south are being torn down. Built in 1882, they brought architects from all corners of the world to admire their charm and beauty. They had fronts that were considered baroque today and lofty ceiling rooms any one of which would house an average sized family. The buildings were seven stories and a writer of that day babbled of their dizzy height. They are still in good shape, but are razed to make way for modern structures—including a new home for the New York Athletic club.

• • •

I have frequently watched men who belong to the athletic club. They seem to be surely afflicted with eager vitality to get there. And I have often saw a member lurch across the sidewalk to the waiting taxi. They have a ruddiness of face when they depart and of all the clubs I know the members seem to get more out of their membership.

• • •

There is, however, something depressing about those early morning horseback riders bouncing along in Central park. Most of them appear to regard it a grim business. They gather on their caracoling mounts at the park sleepy-eyed and silent, but determined apparently to make several circles of the bridle path before breakfast. It may be that I have seen those few cold mornings I have seen them but it appears more an ordeal that must be endured.—Copyright, 1926.

Today's Worst Story.

BY WILL ROGERS

They had some terrible rains down in Texas a few weeks ago. I heard some of the folks talking about some of the crops being washed out, along the Neosho river. Now they have such good crops there anyhow that they'll never notice it if they happen to get a flood once in a century or so. It's a big farming country, and when the people get busy hauling alfalfa to town and getting money home, they sometimes have to postpone and prayer meetings. In the spring the big question is always whether there is going to be enough rain. Generally there is, so they always pray for quite a lot of rain and get it.

Well, when this big washout came, some of the boys was talking about it and about whether they'd get a certain man to come and give them some more rain after the water went down.

"I don't know about him," says Bill Green. "He's all right and a good fellow an' everything, but seems to me like he makes mistakes too. Now, if I know anything about water, that guy sure overprayed for spring."—Copyright, 1926.

Repaving of W. Center-st May be Included in Work Scheduled for Next Year

Projects on List Certain To Be Completed in 1927 Are Holmes-Pl, Columbia-St and Blaine-Av Improvements, Officials Say

... Marion's street improvement ... for this year almost completed, ... and the City Engineering de... are preparing to lay plans for ... be done in 1927. Although ... details will probably not be ... until after Jan. 1, it is ex... that next year's schedule of im... ments will not be extensive, due ... to the fact that city officials are determined to hold closely to the policy of economy inaugurated for the purpose of reconstructing and stabilizing municipal finances.

Only three street paving projects are now on the list of improvements that are absolutely certain to be completed in 1927. These are the Holmes-pl paving between Orchard and Gardenists, bids for which were received last week, and resurfacing of Columbia-st and Blaine-av. Contracts for the two last named thoroughfares will probably be let in the near future.

Columbia Resurfacing

Columbia-st is to be re-surfaced throughout and Blaine-av between Center and Church-sts. Both of the present pavings are in bad shape as a consequence of storm water sewers having been laid along both thoroughfares.

It is also probable that the W. Center-st paving contract, the most important planned here for a number of years, will be included in the 1927 schedule. Center-st, according to present indications, will be provided with an entire new paving with concrete foundation. At first it was proposed that the thoroughfare be re-surfaced, but city officials have practically come to the conclusion complete reconstruction is advisable because of the exceptionally heavy traffic on the street.

To Make Survey

The engineering department is expected to make a survey of Center-st in a short time in order that an estimate of the cost of the improvement may be established.

Aside from the Columbia-st, Blaine-av and Holmes-pl projects and the proposed improvement of Center-st, there are no paving jobs in sight for 1927. No petitions are on file with Council and it is understood that the city's legislative body will go slow in the matter of granting requests for new paving should any be filed. The purpose of Council is to reduce the city's bonded indebtedness as much as possible during 1927. A large reduction was offered this year and by continuing this policy it is hoped within a few years to place municipal finance on the most favorable basis of the last decade.

Uncompleted Work

The Merkel-av, Oak Grove-av and E. Church-st pavings are the only uncompleted improvements on this year's list. These are certain to be finished, despite the fact that weather conditions are now a big handicap, officials of the engineering department say. About 450 lineal feet of concrete remains to be laid on Merkel-av and 600 feet on Oak Grove-av, and the E. Church-st work is complete with the exception of about two blocks of brick surfacing. Only about six days of good weather are needed for placing these three streets in shape for use, it is stated.

Winter will not halt sewer construction work and it is likely that laying of a 700-foot sanitary and storm water sewer on Holmes-pl will go ahead, according to present plans. Construction of sewers in the Brightwood addition, bids for which were received last week, is also scheduled to start as soon as the contracts are awarded.

DENNIS M. BREEN DIES IN COLUMBUS HOSPITAL

Death Follows Long Illness of Cancer: Funeral To Be Held Thursday

Dennis M. Breen, 68, of 267 N. State-st, died at 12 o'clock yesterday noon at St. Anthony Hospital, Columbus, following a long illness of cancer. He underwent an operation a week ago.

He was a life-long member of St. Mary's Catholic Church, and had made his home in this city for 38 years, a part of which he was proprietor of a grocery store.

He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Jennie Breen at home, one daughter, Mrs. Savina Surcholde of San Antonio, Tex., three sisters, Mrs. Nellie Gray, Mrs. Hannah Lamough and Mrs. Mary Ann Filbon, all of Ottawa, Can., and one brother Michael Breen of Douglas, Ont., and one grandchild. His parents, two sisters, four brothers and one son preceded him in death.

Funeral arrangements are not entirely completed. The services will be held Thursday and followed by burial in St. Mary's Cemetery. The body was removal from Columbus last night to the M. H. Gunder Funeral Home and was removed to the home, 267 N. State-st, at 4 o'clock this afternoon.

Easy to check Catarrh NOW!

Many endure catarrh because they do not know how easy it is to end it. Salves and ointments give only temporary relief. Catarrh is too deep-seated for them to reach effectively.

To end catarrh you must treat the inflamed mucous membranes—the delicate linings of nose, throat and head. When these are again in a healthy condition, catarrh, and catarrhal deafness disappear.

To do this use Hall's Catarrh Medicine. Thousands have found it most effective for over 40 years. Ask your druggist. Price 85c. F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio.

A Sure Way To End Dandruff

There is one sure way that has never failed to remove dandruff at once, and that is to dissolve it, then you destroy it entirely. To do this, just get about four ounces of plain, ordinary liquid arvon from any drug store (this is all you need), apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

By morning, most if not all of your dandruff will be gone, and two or three more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it, no matter how much dandruff you may have.

You will find, too, all itching and digging of the scalp will stop instantly, and your hair will be fluffy, lustrous and glossy, silky and soft, and look and feel a hundred times better.—Adv.

Social Activities

ONE of the most delightful social events of the season was the dinner Monday night given by Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Bentz Dr. and Mr. E. L. Reed's, Mr. and Mrs. J. K. Schwinger and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hull entertained about 350 guests at Schwinger's.

Garlands of Southern Smilax combined with hard pastel colors were also a decorative note for the walls and the lights were shaded in silk harmonizing soft tints of yellow and blue. A band of palms formed an alcove where Bobbie Hines' Orchestra, Columbus, played the dance program. Palms, Southern Smilax also adorned the tables where tables were arranged for cards and a buffet supper. The table was centered with a plaque of baby's breath encircling from rose color to white, and lighted with yellow cathedral tapers in low silver holders.

Centering the supper room was a bower arranged of white pillars and greenery, where Miss Ruth Claborne, Mt. Gilead, entertained with a program of harp music during the supper hour. Guest favors were posed by Mrs. Ula McNamara and Miss Margaret Brady and Bobby and Jack Bentz and James Brady assisted in presenting favors during the grand march. Out-of-town guests were Mrs. William Welch of Akron, guest of Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Bentz and Miss Eugenia Selby, guest of Mr. and Mrs. Frances Hurst.

THE marriage of Miss Helen Lutz and Francis Navin was solemnized at 8:30 o'clock this morning at St. Mary's Catholic Church. Rev. F. N. Cotter, pastor, read the marriage service and also was the celebrant at the low nuptial mass. The wedding marches were played by Miss Bernardine Sullivan. Following the ceremony a wedding breakfast was served at Hotel Harding, covers being placed for immediate relatives of the bride and bridegroom.

The bride wore a charming frock of panne velvet in a golden shade with a velvet hat in the same shade in gold trimming. Her flowers were Columbia roses and white pompoms arranged in a shower. She was attended by her cousin, Miss Margaret Harlow, who wore a frock of satin crepe in fallow, and a metallic hat in autumn tints. Her flowers were an arm bouquet of chrysanthemums in pink. John Dugan attended Mr. Navin as best man.

Baskets of Columbia Roses and pompoms, arranged an attractive note in the bride's colors, pink and white, centered the tables at which covers were placed for about 25 at the wedding breakfast. Out-of-town relatives included Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Burke, Toledo, Mr. and Mrs. James Gates and Ray Navin of Detroit.

Mr. and Mrs. Navin left this afternoon on a motor trip to Cleveland, Detroit and other points. They will be at home after Dec. 1 at 261 Chestnut st. The bride wore for traveling a frock of black satin and a golden muskrat coat.

Mrs. Navin is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. C. Lutz, 261 Chestnut st. She is a graduate of St. Mary's parochial school and has been employed as bookkeeper in the office of Frank Bros. Co. Mr. Navin attended St. Mary's School and is employed in the yard master's office of the Erie Railroad Co.

Here is a home-made syrup which millions of people have found to be the most dependable means of breaking up stubborn coughs. It is cheap and simple, but very prompt in action. Under its healing, soothing influence, the coughing goes, phlegm loosens, breathing becomes easier, tickling in throat stops and you get a good night's restful sleep. The usual throat and chest colds are conquered by it in 24 hours or less. Nothing better for bronchitis, hoarseness, throat tickle, bronchial asthma or winter coughs.

... nothing to get even with ...cept his strenuous efforts to ...make me bring Celia back. ...w where you were all the ...haven't been fooled. He help- ...get caught himself. You're ...because he's scared."

A cynical little smile curled her lips. He's scared, certainly. But perhaps that's not surprising. It would scare almost any man to face ruin for something he hadn't done.

"You're well posted," he sneered, thinking he had her trapped.

"Yes. I met Cliff just now at the foot of the hill—for the first time in a year and a half—and he told me." The smile lingered. "He was to have met me New York, but he didn't."

Scott nodded. "I saw to that."

"I'm really glad you did, because if he had met me everything would have been different."

"Different? How? What do you mean?"

"Cliff must have been scared even then, because when he couldn't meet me himself, he sent a man to tell me that I mustn't on any account try to see Celia. He knew I wanted to, but he said the consequences would be very serious if I did. That's the reason he was so bent on finding me before I saw her, and the reason he came up here. He thought I might be here, and he wanted to stop me."

"Why didn't he, then?"

"He couldn't find me. He hasn't seen me since he was in Paris, a year ago last spring, until we met by accident just now on the road. He hadn't the remotest idea where I was, and he knew no more about Celia's disappearance than you did."

"Hm"! Scott scrutinized her keenly and she looked back at him, clear-eyed. "Are you telling me the truth?"

"I am. Whatever else you can say about me, I've never lied to you. Cliff's been on your side all through this—and is yet."

"He'd better be!"

"He is. I'd have been here a little earlier if he hadn't kept me, trying to make me promise to bring Celia back."

"And you wouldn't, eh? Well, you will."

"She's not coming back—ever."

"You haven't married her to that damn Frenchman!"

"Oh no. She's too young to marry. She wants to go to college first. But she's not coming back here."

"I-I-I, eh?" His dark flush deepened. "We'll see about that. I've got you now, and you'll produce her, or—" He paused threateningly.

"Or what?" she asked, with unbroken composure.

"Or take the consequences!"

"Consequences of what? You haven't an ounce of proof that I know where she is."

"You admitted it."

"Not before witnesses," she reminded him. "You have no proof whatever that I've even seen her. You can't prove that I've been near Birchwood for three years—until today."

He took a step toward her, clenching his fists. "I'll find that girl and bring her back, if it takes a year."

"It won't. You can find her easily enough after tomorrow. She'll be with me, and we're not going to hide away more. But if you take her away from me, I'll do what I should have done in the first place. I'll apply for a writ of habeas corpus and prove in court that you're not a fit person to have charge of her."

"Not fit! To control my own daughter?"

"You've threatened and intimated her. You've kept her under a guard for months and circulated a report that her mind was affected. That can be proved. She says you told her she was mentally incompetent and that you'd keep her here until she was of age and then put her in a sanitarium, unless she'd promise to obey you absolutely. That's cruelty."

"It's nothing of the sort!"

"All right." Roberta's tone was cold. "Shall we leave it to the court?"

"You little devil!" said Scott ferociously. "Who's put you up to this?"

"A man who knows the law."

"You wouldn't dare do it."

"Try me, if you like. I'm not afraid of you—and I love Celia."

"By God, I won't have it!" he cried, beside himself with fury. "My own flesh and blood! You're mine, too, even if you are unnatural, and I'll keep you here until I bring you to your senses. You'll tell me where she is!"

"Don't shout, father. The chauffeur over there is a witness. You can't do anything to me. I prepared for that. Several men know I came here, and why. If I'm not back when I'm expected they'll take steps—legal steps, if necessary—to find me."

"Who are they? Who's behind you in all this? You never did it alone."

"No. I couldn't have done it alone. A man whom neither you nor Cliff knows helped me take Celia away, and I got legal advice in Boston this morning."

"I'll find out who he is! I'll get him!"

"That's another thing." Roberta's voice was still steady, but she was deadly pale. "If you don't call off your detectives immediately and drop this whole matter of Celia's flight, so that you've taken one more step toward investigating any of it, or that you've hounded the man who helped me—I'll give the whole story to the newspapers, including your treatment of Celia and my reasons for taking her away."

Scott stared, somewhat daunted, but too enraged to weigh his words. "Tell it, then! Publish it, if you have no shame!"

"The shame wouldn't be mine. Any court and any public would uphold me. Are you willing to appear in headlines as a cruel father? Willing to have men point you out and whisper about you? As you say yourself sometimes, think it over."

Aghast at the picture she evoked, he read determination in her face and knew himself beaten. His great shoulders sagged. Suddenly Roberta was sorry for him, even while she gave thanks to the man who had pointed out to her that of all the weapons at her hand, the threat of publicity was the keenest, the one from which her father would most surely shrink.

"I'd rather not do that," she said gently. "But I will, if you make it necessary."

He knew that she would, too. Her stability had been proved.

"My own flesh and blood," he mumbled incoherently. "You must be crazy!"

"If either of us is unbalanced, it's you," she returned, quietly using another suggestion supplied by her shrewd coach. "Perhaps that's the kindest thing for us to think—Celia and me."

"You're both unnatural."

"We're partly what you made us, I suppose. We'd have liked to be friends with you—we'd like to still, if you—if you'd let us. Will you?"

"Friends! I'm your father!"

"Yes, you're my father, but we'd both like you to be our friends, too. Will you?"

Aristocracy still prefers to be called the "silk stockings", not withstanding the advent of the silk shirt.

CHILD GETS SICK CROSS, FEVERISH IF CONSTIPATED

Look at tongue! Then give fruity laxative for stomach, liver, bowels

"California Fig Syrup" can't harm children and they love it

Mother! Your child isn't naturally cross and peevish. See if tongue is coated. This is a sure sign the little stomach and bowels need a cleansing at once.

When listless, pale, feverish, full of cold, has sore throat, doesn't eat, sleep or act naturally, has stomach-ache, remember, a gentle liver and bowel cleansing should always be the first treatment given.

Nothing equals "California Fig Syrup" for children's ills; give a teaspoonful and in a few hours all the sour, bile and fermenting waste is clogged in the bowels gently moves out of the system, and you have a well and playful child again. All children love this harmless, delicious, fruit laxative", and it never fails to make a good "inside cleansing". Directions for babies, children of all ages and grown-ups are plainly on the bottle.

Keep it handy in your home. A little given today saves a sick child tomorrow. But see that it is the genuine. Ask your druggist for a bottle of "California Fig Syrup", and see that it is made by "The California Fig Syrup Company."

CALL WAR PREVENTION MEETING

Central Press Photos

Among the prominent women who are responsible for the 2nd Conference on the Cause and Cure of War are: Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt, who will preside at the general sessions; Miss Josephine Schain, secretary of the Conference; Mrs. John D. Sherman, president of the Gen. Fed. of Women's Clubs; Miss Belle Sherwin, president of the National League of Women Voters, and Miss Rose Schneidermann, representing the Women's Trade Union League.

REPRESENTATIVES of five million American club women are to meet Dec. 5-10 in Washington, D. C., in a great gathering to exert all their power against wars. The gathering—officially termed "The Second Conference on the Cause and Cure of War"—is to be attended by 1000 delegates, representing the most influential women's organizations in the United States.

Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt will supervises the organization of the conference this year as in the one held in January, 1925, and will preside at the general sessions. The foreign debt policy of the United States and the situation in Mexico will be discussed as well as the attitude of Uncle Sam toward China, Japan, the Philippines and Latin America, which will be presented by speakers of each of the nationalities in question. Among the 10 speakers on the program will be Brig. Gen. Tasker H. Bliss, Norman Angell, the author, and Prof. James T. Shotwell of Columbia University.

According to Mrs. Catt, the causes of war, such as overpopulation, economic rivalries, armament competition and mass psychology having been well discussed at the former conference, the emphasis this year will be on national security without the expedient of war.

"We shall neither discuss the horrors of war nor argue whether or not it is possible to abolish it," said Mrs. Catt. "The conference opens with the conviction that war is a relic of barbarism which should have been abolished years ago. We shall proceed unemotionally to a sane, scholarly treatment of the subject in hand.

The presidents of each of the co-operating organizations will preside at round table discussions. Miss Belle Sherwin of Cleveland will represent the National League of Women Voters; Mrs. John D. Sherman of Estes Park, Col., the General Federation of Women's Clubs; Miss Rose Schneiderhmann of New York, the Women's Trade Union League; Mrs. Ella Boole of Brooklyn the W. C. T. U.; Mrs. Robert Speer of Englewood, N. J., the Y. W. C. A.; Aurelia Reinhardt of Oakland, Calif., the American Association of University Women and Mrs. William Dick Spurborg of Portchester, N. Y., the Council of Jewish Women. Mrs. John Ferguson of New York will represent the Council of Women for Home Missions, and Mrs. Silverthorne, also of New York, the Federation of Women's Boards of Foreign Missions of North America.

Miss Josephine Schain is secretary of the Conference.

Quicksands of Love

BY ADELE GARRISON

Servant to Actress

I DO not know how long I stood reading over Mary Harrison's letter, childhood and young girlhood with their cumulative effect of rebellion against the rigid routine of her present life. I remember that I did no work of my own that night, for I found that even after I had severely scored myself for my wandering thoughts, I could make no headway with anything but plans for the modification of the rigid regime which Philip Veritzen had laid down for the young novice of the theater.

Common sense told me that it was useless for me to formulate any such schemes, for the great Broadway producer had the reputation of never reversing an edict, once made, but something deep in my sub-consciousness whispered a hope that I might be able to effect some compromise between the martinet ideas of Mr. Veritzen, and the rebellious longings of his latest "find," whose place, he had promised, would be high in the theatrical world, if she could stand the rigidity of her training.

The Star's Dressing-Room

Before I knew it, the hour had come which I invariably devoted to Junior, and with a recollection of the milk I had promised Mary, I went into the kitchen, placed saucepan, glass, spoon, bowl of milk and plate of crackers on a tray and covering it, made my way to the third floor where Katherine, Junior and Marion had their rooms.

Katherine had Junior all ready for bed, and I saw her glance at the tray with an expression which would have been sour disapproval on a face less winsome. I guessed that she thought I was bringing the child something to eat and did not blame her for resenting such an interference with the admirable routine of diet and care she was giving him during the year I had contracted to do Philip Veritzen's work.

I gave her no chance to voice any possible objection, fairly leaping into an explanation, so eager was I to disabuse her mind of any idea that I was trying to do more than my part.

"This isn't for the patient," I said smiling, "it's for the nurse herself."

I didn't. Katherine began a possible, then her smile came on bravely, a reluctant one at first.

"Yes, I did," she said with a shamefaced glint. "But I ought to have known better. You're a queer chooser, my dear, and nobody knows it better than your old friend, Katherine."

I flushed with pleasure at her words, and the warm little glow at my heart lasted all through the wonderful hour with my baby but to which he and I looked forward every day. When he was finally tucked up and sound asleep I took up my tray and made my way to Mary's room, found myself ridiculously shy if Dicks were only home to ask for the good night blessing which I nightly bargain for him. I would be fairly well occupied, I decided, for a woman who is a plastic to experiment for a year with work which would demand her undivided time and attention.

I knocked lightly on Mary's door and entered at her low "Come in." She was in bed as I had directed, looking very like a rose, I thought sentimentally, in her pink pajamas propped against her pillows.

take S.S.S. and be PROUD of a CLEAR SKIN

DOES YOUR MIRROR reveal a soft, clear, ruddy skin, free from imperfections, that is such a joy to every woman? Or are you embarrassed with blemishes, pimples, little eruptions, acne, blackheads and other unsightly and disheartening handicaps?

Your face is the reality your pocketbook, and if your mirror reveals a blemished, unsightly complexion, it's time to begin at once to correct the annoying condition. When the blood becomes infected with poisons or impurities, the circulation cannot supply rich nutrition to the skin, but instead it deposits the actual impurities with which it is contaminated into the sensitive pores and tissues. This causes irritation & inflammation which spoils or breaks the outer cuticle, while the tissues beneath ulcerate, become inflamed, break out into pimples, and cause other unsightly conditions.

Just as Long as the Blood Remains Pure, the Skin Will Be Free From Eruptions

But when the blood becomes affected with humors, its goodness and health-ful properties are lost, and its human laden condition causes inflammation of the delicate tissue and fibers of the pores and glands. You have but to realize the importance of pure, rich blood in preserving the health, and that the source of all skin disorders is in the blood. Remove the cause, which is not in the skin itself, and therefore cannot be reached by a treatment that is strictly local, but is deep down in the blood supply.

S.S.S. Has a Proved Record Over 100 Years as the World's Best Blood Medicine

Because S.S.S. does build rich blood cells, it clears the system and makes those so-called skin disorders impossible to exist. S.S.S. contains only pure vegetable medicinal ingredients. It is also a remarkable builder of firm flesh which is also important to beauty. It will fill out your hollow cheeks, put the "rubs" of health in your cheeks and the sparkle in your eyes. Since 1826 S.S.S. has been beautifying complexions and giving women physical charm. That is why S.S.S. is accepted as the greatest of all blood cleansers and body builders. S.S.S. is sold at all good drug stores. The larger size bottle is more economical. Start taking S.S.S. today. Its marvelous results will amaze you!

Court Grants Prosecutor Right To Show Scenes Of Lan

SURPRISE IN TRIAL GIVEN BY STATE TODAY

Jurors To See Murder Spot Surroundings Projected in Court Room

Courthouse, Somerville, N. J., Nov. 16—Alexander Simpson, the spectacular prosecutor in the Hall-Mills murder trial, today requested in court that he be allowed to project on a screen pictures of De Russey's lane so that the jurors could obtain an accurate idea of the scene where the Rev. Edward Wheeler Hall and Mrs. Eleanor Mills were shot to death on the night of Sept. 14, 1922.

This unprecedented proposal from the prosecutor provoked a vigorous objection from the defense.

The court explained that the machine was of the steroptican style and did not object to a private demonstration at the noon recess with lawyers for both sides present. McCarter had no objection to this plan.

Mrs. Marie M. Lee, a younger sister of Mrs. Mills was then called to the stand. She testified she knew Dr. Hall and that she had attended social gatherings at the Church of St. John the Evangelist in New Brunswick.

"My sister told me she loved Dr. Hall", the witness said.

Mrs. Lee said that her sister told her that Dr. Hall planned to get a divorce and that she intended to run away with him.

"Did you ever see them kiss each other?" Simpson asked.

"Yes, one time I looked in the window and he was sitting in an armchair and she was sitting on his lap. I saw her kiss him as she got off his lap."

"What did she say of her relations with Dr. Hall?" Simpson asked.

"She said she loved him, but at this time in 1919 their love was platonic. Their relations were quite proper."

"Did she say why she loved him?"

"She thought of him as an intellectual equal and the ideal of a man."

McCarter cross-examined Mrs. Lee. She said she had lived with Mrs. Mills for about a year, from 1918 to 1919, and then that she—the witness—married and went to Minneapolis to live. Her husband has since died and she moved to Paterson, N. J., early this year.

Ira B. Nixon, 42 year old salesman, shared the spotlight with Mrs. Jane Gibson as the state's star witnesses. Nixon testified that Elisha K. Soper, a former friend, told him he saw Mrs. Frances Stevens Hall and her two brothers, Willie and Henry Stevens, sitting in a dimly lighted car near De Russey's lane on the night of the murder." No amount of cross-examination could shake Nixon's testimony. Nixon took the stand immediately after Soper had testified he saw a parked auto in Easton-av, near De Russey's lane on the fatal night, but that he didn't recognize the two men and a woman who were passengers.

Soper was recalled to the stand. Did he, after all, recall who the three persons were he swore he saw in the car?

"No, I did not," he said.

The opening of court was delayed this morning when Prosecutor Alexander Simpson went into conference with the presiding judges, Charles W. Parker and Frank L. Cleary.

Simpson told the judges he wished to have time to question several new witnesses whom he had in an anteroom. These witnesses were members of the guild of St. John the Evangelist church in New Brunswick, who Barron Tough had testified had gossiped about Mrs. Mills and Dr. Hall.

A drizzling early morning rain failed to decrease the attendance.

The tiny, chapel-like courtroom with its stained glass sky piece was packed to the doors. Most of the spectators were women.

The defendants filed into the prisoners desk a few minutes before court opened. Mrs. Hall, again in black, seemed very tired. Willie Stevens was all smiles. His wiery, curly black hair had been barbered since yesterday. For the first time, Henry Stevens gaped about the courtroom, evidently looking to see whom he could recognized.

YOUTHFUL FAKE HELD BY BOSTON POLICE COURT

Took "Girl Friend" to Michigan-Navy Game on President's Tickets

Boston, Nov. 16 "Little Joe" Hall, of Edgartown, who faces eight charges of larceny in Municipal Court today, believes that the best is none too good for his "girl friend," and so he sat here in the box donated to President Coolidge at the Navy-Michigan football game in Baltimore.

At least that's "Joe's" story, and he added that the president gave him a personal bodyguard and offered him the presidential car. But "Joe" had a classy sport roadster of his own, which, he today admitted, he stole in Raleigh, N. C. Nattily dressed and smiling "Joe" swung a bag of golf clubs over his shoulder and uncorked his story to police inspectors. He said he gained entrance to the White House by posing as the brother of Alfred Hall, Edgartown republican leader, whom the president remembered.

DIFFERENT STORY FROM WASHINGTON

Washington, Nov. 16—The White House gave two tickets to the Navy-Michigan game to "Little Joe" Hall, but the youth did not see the president nor was a White House car offered to him.

Hall came to the White House about two hours before the kickoff of the Navy-Michigan game was scheduled in Baltimore forty miles away. He saw Edward T. Clark private secretary to the president, said he was the brother of Alfred Hall republican leader of Edgartown, and explained that he had come down for the sole purpose of seeing the football game. He had, he said gone to prep school with one of the midshipmen, from whom he had expected to get tickets.

"Little Joe," however, found he could not reach this friend and therefore was appealing to the White House for aid.

His personal appearance and his knowledge of Massachusetts affairs were sufficient to give Clark the idea that at least he was not seeking tickets for scalping purposes. Clark claimed neither to remember him nor his brothers.

Meanwhile, Everett Sanders, the president's secretary, was holding two tickets for a friend. Clark knew this and in view of the late hour it was apparent the tickets would go to waste. Clark and Sanders conferred, decided that the young man could not scalp the tickets and gave them to him.

No offer was made to place a White House car at his disposal. As young Hall left, Clark jokingly told him he expected to return to Massachusetts immediately after the game and vote in the election on the Tuesday following.

"This was the only thing that seemed to flutter him," Clark said laughingly.

...ity and welfare bodies most vitally interested.

Arrangements for filing a report on the referendum vote on taxation soon compiled by the national Chamber of Commerce were made with the appointment of Fred E. Guthery, C. E. Meckle and J. W. Jacoby as a committee to investigate and submit recommendations to the local board of directors.

Make Proposals

The committee will make recommendations either for or against the following proposals listed on the National Chamber's ballot:

That intangible personal property should be taxed on the basis of annual earnings in lieu of any other taxes as to such property.

That for any ad valorem tax, intangible property should be classified and the rate should be low, with reasonable relation to earnings.

That taxes imposed upon the transfer of property at the owner's death should be in the form of estate taxes.

That reciprocal exemption from taxes should be provided for intangible property of non-resident decedents.

The two first proposals relating to personal property taxes are of special importance in Ohio, where taxes on such property are levied on a face value basis without regard to earnings. Classification measures have been submitted to voters of the state several times and have been defeated.

The ballot has been mailed to all Chambers of Commerce throughout the country and the vote when compiled will guide the policy of the national organization in regard to taxes. The three members of the local committee are regarded as especially well informed on tax questions.

Committee Report.

Report of the committee will be submitted to the board of directors here at the first meeting in December and will then be sent to national headquarters in Washington. Result of the referendum will be announced at Washington early in December.

Members of the new board of directors of the local Chamber of Commerce, in addition to those named in the list of executive officers are Horace Ballinger, H. J. Barnhart, W. J. Gorton, Fred E. Guthery, H. B. Hane, C. B. King, F. A. Huber, Charles H. Isaly, Roy D. Moore and E. J. Schoenlaub.

Prior to the meeting of the new directors, the board which served this year met and officially closed its affairs. The final transactions included receipt of a report from L. T. Young and J. T. Matthews, who conducted the annual audit of the Chamber's accounts last week.

Gilead, who died at St. Luke's Hospital at Cleveland Sunday evening, as the result of injuries received when he was struck by an automobile, was returned to Mt. The pursuing driver was halted in his chase by a policeman, who joined him when the case was explained to him. They pursued the fleeing driver 61 miles before finally overhauling him, when he was brought back to Cleveland.

The Bennett lad was rushed to St. Luke's Hospital, where he died Sunday evening as a result of injuries. It was stated that his companion was also badly hurt, receiving a broken arm and wrist, a broken leg and severe body bruises.

BAN JOHNSON, czarlike president of the American league, is interesting himself in the case of Eddie Collins, recently deposed manager of the Chicago White Sox. Ban would like to see Collins installed as manager of the Boston Red Sox, succeeding Lee Fohl. If Johnson is successful in this move, he will be making a popular play. Collins was not a failure as manager of the pale hose, and Comiskey's reason for dethroning him as manager is a mysterious one. The guess which is given more credence than any other is the large salary Eddie was drawing as a playing manager. The fact that he was getting along in years, and that his playing days were about over probable led the "old Roman" to the conclusion that Eddie's salary was too great to pay a bench manager. Collins has lots of good ball left in him, and if he goes to Boston as manager he will be a popular leader in Beantown. Boston is one of the best baseball towns in either league, and deserves better ball than has been given the city in the last few years. Eddie may prove to be the link that will supply the town with the kind of ball to which it is entitled. Here's hoping he goes to the Hub, and makes good from the start.

ICE Hockey is gaining a tremendous hold in the East. This game, which has been confined to the colleges almost exclusively in this country, has long been a popular sport in Canada. In the northfessional matches in artificial dominion it reached almost the proportions of a national sport. Now Tex Rickard and other enterprising promoters are staging professional matches in artificial rinks, and are "packing them in." Several professional teams in New York and Boston are big money makers. It is likely that professional hockey leagues will be formed this winter that will stretch from New York as far west as Kansas City and St. Louis. It is one of the most exciting sports on the calendar, and the only thing that will keep it from becoming one of our most popular winter sports will be the cost of providing suitable rinks.

Thirty-Five Respond to Call for Harding Cager

Sophomores And Juniors Make Up Majority of Crew Answering Compton's Call

Ten Additional Candidates Expected To Turn Out When Grid Season Ends; Practice To Begin in Earnest Monday Following Thanksgiving Day.

THIRTY-FIVE eager candidates answered Coach "Baldy" Compton's first call to action yesterday afternoon when the initial practice session of the 1926-27 Harding High cage season was held on the high school gym floor.

Sophomores and juniors made up the majority of the crew to report while a few seniors were seen in uniform. John Gillis, general utility man on last year's squad, was the only letter man to appear at the first practice. There are only two other letter men in Harding High and they are now engaged in the grid game.

No regular from last year strutted out on the court to aid the appearance of the 35 youths who answered Coach Compton's summons. Not a first string man is available to form a nucleus for the quintet this season.

Every man of the 35 to report has an equal chance to make good on the Harding High squad this year and Coach Compton has a great task facing him in the training and selecting of an able band of warriors to lead the school successfully in its cage battles during the winter.

When Harding High gridders lay aside their moleskins within the next two weeks, at least 10 additional candidates are expected to make a bid for a berth on the basketball squad. Bartelt and Rinnert, both members of the football squad, are basketball letter men.

On the Monday following Thanksgiving, basketball practice for Harding High will begin in earnest. By that time, Coach Compton will have cut the squad of recruits who reported last night and will be prepared to handle the influx of grid men who will attempt to score on the court.

More interest is being shown in basketball by students than has been registered in Marion for many years. Sophomore are especially anxious to make the team and have returned out in large numbers.

Practices will be held in the gym floor during the next two weeks but after Thanksgiving, Coach Compton expects to make use of the Star Auditorium in building up a winning cage outfit.

No definite schedule for the season has yet been arranged but it is practically certain that the locals will take on their first opponents the third week in December.

PADDOCK MARK OFFICIALLY SET

Record of Roland Locke of Nebraska Also Is Credited

Baltimore, Nov. 16—The world's record for 100 yards was officially established today at 9½ seconds and credited to Charley Paddock, the California flash.

The national convention of the A. A. U. voted to accept Paddock's new mark, and also the mark of Roland Locke, of Nebraska, of 20½ seconds for the 220-yard dash. In doing so, however, the A. A. U. went on record against the tenth-second watches by which the races were timed.

The old fifth-second watches are more accurate, the A. A. U. decided. The convention also ratified 157 other new marks in various forms of athletic endeavor, including 33 in track and field and 124 in swimming.

OFFERS FINNEGAN BOUT WITH BENNY BASS

Boston, Nov. 16—Jesse MacMahon, Tex Rickard's matchmaker at Madison Square Garden, today offered Honeyboy Finnegan a bout with Benny Bass, of Phiadelphia to be staged at New York late next month for the New York American's Christmas fund, as a result of the Dorchester featherweight winning the featherweight title by defeating Chick Suggs, of New Bedford.

Finnegan proved every inch a champion as he punched Suggs, hailed as the new George Dixon, into submission. He carried six of the ten rounds, two ended in favor of Suggs, while the other two were even.

Oberlin Obstacle in Woosters' Path to Championship

Annual Battle of Reserve and Case Also Will Take Place Over This Week-End

Muskingum Almost Certain Winner Over Marietta, Baby Member of Conference; Ohio U. Favorite Over Lutherans at Springfield; Ohio Wesleyan Scheduled To Trim Denison

CLEVELAND, Nov. 16—"O stands for Oberlin and obstacle." So reads the Wooster football primer and this coming week will see another series of crucial games in the Ohio Conference.

As the season has matured these classics have attained more serious aspect and the Oberlin-Wooster melee at Oberlin will be a contest teeming with ferocity for Oberlin reasons that if it can't be the champion, neither will Wooster.

The stage has been all set. Wooster, under Coach Boles, but inspired by the distant tutelage of Art Murray has swept all before it in a wide and devastating swath. Until the Miami game Oberlin has done the same. The Case Black and Gold eleven will be the deciding factor, although the bicyclists show the sturdy defense of which the Oberlin line is capable, the victory or defeat may rest with one of Mr. Peter Blough. Last year Oberlin won 13-0, but time shows a tendency to revert and to this corner a Wooster victory seems inevitable.

A war of the catch-as-catch can, no-holds-barred Roman battles takes place in Cleveland when Case and Reserve meet in their annual game. The much vaunted Reserve eleven, which has wobbled hither and yon from the early season predictions, has been pointing to this contest. But it is more so than has the Case team, which has last year's 6-0 win over Reserve as incentive to repetition.

Pioneers Peculiar

The Pioneers are a peculiar outfit. Strong and shifty in the line with a powerful driving attack, it misses the aerial threat as a mask of the line power if not for the success of the passing game itself. Perhaps this Saturday will see some tosses. Otherwise, the Case forwards and secondary defense will have the edge in knowing what to expect. On the other hand, the Scientists have a far more varied attack and the Reserve backs will have to meander back and forth to offset line drives or passes.

Muskingum, resting easily on the top of the race with six wins and no losses, encounters the anaemic Marietta eleven at New Concord. Unless the heavens fall or earthquakes start a shimmying contest, the babes are due for a trip to the gridiron woodshed with all the consequent trouncings. Coach Bill Lange of the Muskies has an eleven of which he may be proud and it is almost beyond the shadows of doubt that the Magenta will lose.

Ohio Favorite

At Springfield, is carded the Ohio U.-Wittenberg game. Here are a pair of powerful squads, each with only one defeat and a history of daring marches and powerful defenses, facing each other in a fight for the second position in the race. In 1925, the Green and White rose in all its wrath and smeared the Lutherans, 20-0. This year, on comparative scores, Ohio should win, but Wittenberg is too strong in both attack and defense to make any prediction sound.

Ohio Wesleyan, with but one defeat marring its record, should have little trouble with Denison in the annual clash at Delaware. The Big Red has paled too much to be a strong opponent and while the Battling Bishops haven't awed the football world, they still possess enough power seriously to discomfort the Denison threat.

For the final game at Gambier, Kenyon takes on the Akron Zippers. A year ago, the Episcopalians murdered the Blue and Gold to a 30-0 count, but that belongs to the tomes of gridiron tales. This year, Akron, on the basis of past form, should defeat Kenyon and while the score won't be as bad, the keen observers expect a decisive win.

Tex Rickard announces that Gene Tunney will risk his title only once next year. But, oh, what a lot of chatter there'll be before that one battle.

Present indications are that the major league baseball clubs will start the season next spring with more new pilots at the helm that has been the case in a number of years.

TEX DOES NOT BELIEVE JACK WILL COME BACK

Rickard Has "No Great Confidence" in Dempsey's Promises

BY DAVIS J. WALSH

New York, Nov. 16—Apparently unimpressed by the young man's virtuous resolves, Tex Rickard today informed the writer that he considered it more than possible that the uplifting and sometimes down-dropping art of mutual mayhem had seen the last of Jack Dempsey.

He strongly intimated that he entertained "no great confidence" in Dempsey's extravagant promises of a sweeping come-back because the ex-champion had plenty of money and no particular need of anything at this time, not even a punch on the nose. Rickard didn't disguise the fact that he doubted Dempsey's good intentions once Jack firmly settled down to a life of ease and refinement.

Says They Get Lazy

"They get lazy," Rickard said rather wistfully.

He wasn't thinking so much of a great loss to a great art. He is only for art for Rickard's sake and the idea doesn't thrive when a meal ticket blows out the window and forgets to come back with the change.

"I've seen it work out so many times that I hardly look for anything else," he added. "Dempsey left here all pepped up with the idea of trying himself out and getting back into shape. Maybe he will prove himself an exception to the rule, but, personally, I'd rather bet on something else.

"Firpo might have been champion if he hadn't earned all the money he wanted before he got his shot at the title. He felt he didn't need the money when he trained for Dempsy and we had our hands full making him do any training at all.

Jack Proud of Title

"Willard got the same way between 1915 and 1919 and also suffered from the idea that he was unhurtable. What with both notions he never gave himself a chance against Dempsey at Toledo. Jeffries retired because he got lazy and the idea of training annoyed him. Only the clamor for a white champion and the money I offered brought him back six years later and I doubt whether he would have tried then if Jack Johnson hadn't been champion.

"We have no such condition with Gene Tunney now. There isn't a motive for Dempsey's proposed come-back, except his desire to rule the roost. It may be enough, at that, Jack was very proud of that title and would rather have it back than a million dollars. The only thing is that I feel a million dollars doesn't look so big to Dempsey as they once did."

Coach Sprout Brings To Light Important Rule of North Central Ohio League

Calls Attention of League Officials to Method of Forming League Standings; Under Governing Rule Mansfield Heads Loop

Coach Sprout of Harding High today brought to light one of the most important rules and by-laws of the North Central Ohio League.

Heretofore, it has always been the custome of those forming a standing for the league to consider the percentage of each team in lining up the various elevens entered in the association.

But now, Coach Sprout brings to mind that the officials of the leage, in forming a standing, have done away with the percentage system. According to the rule now existing, when a team in the North Central Ohio League wins a game, it is credited with two points. When it battles to a tie, it is awarded one point. When it loses, it gets a zero.

This method has been adopted to aid in settling the arguments resulting from tie games.

According to that rule, we find Mansfield leading the league with seven points while Shelby and Galion are tied for second place with six points. Harding and Ashland rank next with five points. Bucyrus has four, and Delaware is out of the picture with a single point.

Mansfield Leader

Mansfield leads as a result of the extra point gained from the tie game with Harding two weeks ago. Mansfield also has played one more game than Shelby. Galion has also participated in more contests than Shelby but yet it is tied for second place because it has won three games and thereby receives six points. In both cases, however, Shelby has two more chances to add points while Mansfield and Galion have only one more opportunity.

Harding and Ashland each have one more chance to register a victory and two more points, in which case they will be tied with Mansfield, who will in all probability meet defeat at the hands of Ashland in the last great battle on Thanksgiving Day.

But, while Harding, Mansfield and Ashland average seven points each, it is found that Galion has a wonderful opportunity to add another victory to its list next week and as a result will rank above the other three with eight points at the close of the season. Thus, should Shelby defeat Bucyrus on Thanksgiving Day, Galion and Shelby will be tied in the pennant race.

In case of a tie game between Bucyrus and Galion and a tie between Bucyrus and Shelby, still holding to the contention that Harding, Mansfield and Ashland have seven points each at the close of the season, we find Galion and Shelby also with seven points.

Thus, with heads whirling with puzzled statistics, it is discovered that it is possible for five teams out of seven in the North Central Ohio League to be tied for first honors when the curtain rings down on the grid stage Thanksgiving Day.

Here's the standing in the N. C. O. League, according to points:

Team	W.	L.	T.	Pts.
Mansfield	3	1	1	7
Shelby	3	1	0	6
Galion	3	2	0	6
Harding	2	2	1	5
Ashland	2	2	1	5
Bucyrus	2	2	0	4
Delaware	0	4	1	1

Bowling Green, Nov. 16—Bluffton and Defiance College are preparing this week for the final game of the Little Ohio Conference at Bluffton next Saturday. The game will have no bearing on the conference championship as that honor already has been captured by Findlay College.

Howitzer Company to Open Season Monday With Midway

Howitzer Company, O. N. G., will open the basketball season next Monday night after drill hour when they meet the Midway five on the Armory floor.

The game will be more or less a practice session for both teams but is expected to attract a large number of interested persons.

The Howitzer Company has material for a splendid cage outfit but leaders of the team claim that they cannot succeed in rounding up the quintet for practice. Few practice sessions have been held and those that have been arranged have been attended by only a few aspirants for positions.

The Midways have been practicing regularly and will meet the Howitzer boys as their last tilt before they meet an out-of-town opponent in a preliminary match to the championship game of Isaly Dairies and the K. of C. quintet next Wednesday night.

Corporal Arthur Amick is manager of the Howitzer five and hopes to arrange some real basketball frays for the winter if the team rounds into form soon. Howitzer Company did not support a team last year but had a full schedule the preceding season.

Company D, O. N. G., will also probably endeavor to place a winning quintet on the floor this season.

BUSINESS MEN'S NET LEAGUE WILL OPEN TOMORROW

Games Are Scheduled for Both Floors at Y. M. C. A.

First games in the Business Men's Volleyball League will be staged late Wednesday afternoon on the Y. M. C. A. gym floors.

The first contests promise to be real season openers, and close games are expected to result in the first meeting of this year's teams. Games are scheduled for both the upper and lower Y. M. C. A. gym floors.

Virgil Powell's crew will battle the team placed on the floor by K. K. Hill in the lid lifter on the lower floor at 5:15, Wednesday afternoon. Both teams are composed of some of the best players in the league. At 5:45, the teams captained by Roy Waddell and Carter Patton will oppose each other on the lower floor.

The schedule for the upper court calls for a tilt between Dr. Frank Murphy's outfit and Bob Stief's volleyballers at 5:15, Wednesday afternoon. At 5:45, Russell Snare's men and Charles Isaly's crew will tie up the upper gym floor.

The games Wednesday will mark the opening of the season of one of Marion's most popular recreations. Popularity of volley ball in this city has grown rapidly during the last three years. Particularly among business men has the sport excited much interest.

All games during the coming season will be played on the Y. M. C. A. floors.

The performance of Bernie Neis, Buffalo outfielder, in hitting three home runs in one game was one of the outstanding features of the International League season just closed.

FINE ARTS COURSE IS MEETING WITH FAVOR

Expense of Special Instruction Met by Galion High Students

Galion, Nov. 16—The Fine Arts course sponsored by G. H. S. and which is met with success for the last [illegible] and which is again meeting [illegible] the students. The course includes instruction in the various branches of music and in expression. The class has not been financially able to employ special teachers of these subjects so their private teachers of the city are allowed to enroll classes at the school and the expense of the instruction is met by the pupils. One half credit is given each year and students graded according to the regular school system.

This plan of offering a Fine Arts course was first inaugerated by J. J. Phillips former superintendent of the city schools. Many students in previous years had taken private lessons and it was the plan of Mr. Phillips to encourage this work by giving credit to those interested in this type of study. The plan proved most successful and each year more are enrolled in the classes.

Throughout the school year chapel programs are given and at the close of the term a public recital of the graduating pupils is given at which time the value of such courses are demonstrated.

Miss Bessie Todd and Miss Estella Schisler are the instructors of piano and Mrs. L. E. Beck is in charge of the expression classes. Members of the school band and orchestra are credited for their work and the courses are proving to be the most popular offered.

Even in the Junior high and in the grade schools the same arrangements are being made and enthusiasm among the younger students is very pronounced.

Several times this year programs have been given in the schools and plans are being made for a series of interesting entertainments.

Driven From Bed, Gas Presses Heart

"I was bothered with gas so bad that I had to get up nights on account of the pressure of gas on my heart. I used Adlerika and have been entirely relieved."—R. P. Krueger.

Adlerika is a compound of the best saline intestinal cleanser with glycerine, buckthorn, cascara and other gas-expelling and deterrent elements. It is excellent for Intestinal Stasis, a disease due to modern ways of living and which is often the true cause of sour stomach, gas bloating, nervous dyspepsia and restless sleep.

Unlike most medicines, Adlerika acts upon BOTH upper and lower bowel, giving the intestines a REAL cleansing and bringing out old poisonous matter you never thought was in your system. Even if bowels move daily, you will be surprised how much more old matter Adlerika brings out which may have been causing all your trouble. In spite of slight disorder, like occasional constipation, GAS bloating, indigestion or sick headache, ONE spoonful always brings relief.

Doctors Praise Adlerika

Dr. H. L. Shoub, New York: "Adlerika, in addition to its intestinal cleansing, checks the growth of intestinal bacteria."

Dr. A. C. Curl: "I prescribe Adlerika with highly satisfactory results."

Dr. J. Weaver: "In my 50 years' practice, I have found nothing to excel Adlerika."

J. E. Puckett: "After using Adlerika, I feel better than for 20 years. Awful impurities were eliminated from my system."

Dr. P. M. P. (name withheld by request): "I use Adlerika in all bowel cases. Some require only one dose."

No matter what you have tried for your stomach and bowels, Adlerika will surprise you. At leading druggists. Bradley's Drug Store and other druggists. Adv.

The firemen found the fire and fixed it up without squirting on the carpet. But Mush had carried about all of their furniture outdoors, and as soon as he found the fire was out he put both hands on his back and started to groan and limp back in but his wife hollered at him and made him carry the furniture back.

The teacher scolded the fire chief because of the kind of a fool he called Mush for having a fire on the floor, and he said to her: "Did you think I ought to say 'My goodness,' but that was careless of you?" Then she laughed and he laughed, and we got out of school because the school was cold.

My grandfather laid down on the lounge and Annabelle Lee got an egg out of the pantry and busted it on his bald head. They all thought it was a good joke. It wouldent of been if I had done it. I played checkers with him again. He is a good old fella—when he wins.

He twinkled his pink nose and hoped along, thinking no harm, and his shoes were clean. But when he reached the puddle near the shining place, a stone plopped into the water and mud was plashed on the rabbit gentleman's shoes.

"Shine 'em up!" chattered the Monkey, inviting like.

"I believe I will have a shine," said Uncle Wiggily. Up into the chair he climbed and settled himself comfortably. The Monkey began to polish the rabbit's shoes with brushes and a rag. Back and forth the Monkey rubbed the polish on until the leather of the shoes glistened in the sun. And then the Fox said to the Wolf, hiding beside him:

"Come on now! Let's jump out and get him!"

But no sooner did the bad chaps leap from the bushes than the sun, shining on Uncle Wiggily's polished shoes, struck in the eyes of the bad chaps like the glare from a looking glass. Such a bright light shone in the eyes of the

"Ker choo! Ker coo! Ker fiddeum!"

"Oh, my goodness! Bad chaps!" cried Uncle Wiggily, and tossing some money to the Monkey, who had finished polishing for shoes, away hopped the rabbit before the Fox and Wolf could wipe the water out of their eyes, for the sun glinting from the polished shoes made them cry.

"Ha! Ha! I'm safe!" shouted Uncle Wiggily as he reached his bungalow with his shoes nicely polished.

"Fooled again!" snarled the Wolf. "Fooled! Ah, ker-choo - ker-choum!" Then the two bad chaps with no rabbit to nibble, went sadly back to the woods. And if the uncle doesn't drop down off the porch roof and make a hole in the piece of Swiss cheese, I'll tell you next about Uncle Wiggily's home work.

CONTINUANCE OF LOAN RATE FEATURES MARKET

"Demonstration" in Oil Stocks as Result of Announcement Fails To Appear

MARKETS AT A GLANCE.

Railroad stocks steady; industrial stocks steady; domestic bonds steady; foreign bonds firm; call money 5 per cent; grain steady; copper steady; oil irregular; cotton steady; rubber steady; sugar firm; pig iron firm; foreign exchange irregular.

New York, Nov. 16—Continuance of the five per cent call loan rate and the ceiling of a considerable volume of funds from the speculative market was perhaps the greatest impediment to a forward move in industrial stocks today.

Those who looked for a "demonstration" in the oil stocks to follow the announcement of the Standard Oil Co. of New Jersey's redemption plan for the $200,000,000 of preferred stock were doomed to disappointment. After a slight fractional advance at the opening, Standard Oil stock was quite liberally supplied by the professionals and others and the price declined to 41 5-8 for a loss of nearly a point from yesterday's close.

The independent oil stocks were in active rather than reactionary, thus the drift of prices were downward. For the first since the middle of September there appears to be a recession in the huge over-production of crude oil, though drilling is actively being pushed in the newly discovered fields.

Enthusiastic buying took place in United States Steel on a scale up to 153 1-4, a new high for the move, and representing a recovery of about 20 points from the October low. The independent steel stocks and the copper stocks, the motors and a few of the specialties retained their position in the lead of the bull movement such as it was.

FIT AIR FORCE AGAIN SOUGHT BY ADVOCATES

Senator Johnson Declares Victory of Italy Over U. S. Is "Rude Awakening"

Washington, Nov. 16—Smarting under Italy's aerial victory in the Schneider cup races, preparedness advocates today planned an appeal to congress to develop a modern American air force, even if aviation must be taken out of the control of the war and navy departments. Declaring the defeat of the American naval racers came as a "rude awakening," Sen. Hiram W. Johnson, Republican of California, led the cry for an immediate improvement in American aviation.

HIRAM JOHNSON

The Italian victory, Johnson said, demonstrates that the United States had fallen far behind European nations in the development of military aviation.

The Italians won with a new type of plane, Johnson pointed out, which did 246 miles an hour, about 15 miles faster than the fastest American plane.

The race, incidentally, was the first test undertaken by naval aviation since Col. Billy Mitchell, former stormy petrel of the air service, was courtmartialed for attacking the government's aviation policy.

Rally to Mitchell

The flying colonel's friends, rallying beside the preparedness advocates, undoubtedly will revive his fight for a separate department of aviation and renew his charges that American aviation is being hamstrung by inferior ground officials.

The words Mitchell's critics point to with the most alarm in the doors of congress, if less friendly ears there are, is the statement that Mitchell made, during a speculative tour of Europe, that Europe was outstripping America in aviation. Although both departments of the service, the Belleau wood aviator went on a new inspection tour to which the Americans have given little thought, declaring that at least one European nation has surpassed the United States. As a result of the records of the Schneider cup races, Senator Johnson stated he hoped congress would take steps to improve America's air defense.

"Ought To Lead World"

"I have no interest in opposing the American aviators had a rude awakening in the fact showing of the Italian victory," Johnson said. "We ought to lead the world in aviation. It is the hope of all of us who love that our country should not lag behind in this service that the coming session of congress will do what is appropriate to enable America to take the rank she ought to hold in aviation."

KING SERIOUSLY ILL; MARIE IS LOW IN CHICAGO

Queen Imbued with Hustling Spirit of Middle West's Biggest City

Vienna, Nov. 16—King Ferdinand of Roumania is suffering from acute stomach trouble, according to a bulletin issued by the French physician, Professor Bensaude, a Bucharest message stated today.

KING FERDINAND

Professor Bensaude arrived in Bucharest on Saturday in response to a special summons from the king's physicians.

Notwithstanding the wording of the official bulletin, it is generally believed that Ferdinand is really suffering from cancer of the stomach.

MARIE TAKES PLUNGE TO START BUSY DAY

Aboard Queen Marie Special Train, in Chicago, Nov. 16—Imbued with the hustling spirit of Chicago, Queen Marie, of Roumania, arose today at an unqueenly time for a swim in a local athletic club pool and then plunged into a strenuous program for the day—to last full day in the Windy City before starting for Indianapolis tomorrow.

While Queen Marie was receiving an honorary badge from Red Cross officials and visiting various welfare headquarters and museums, Princess [illegible]

[illegible]

The social side of the royal visit of Queen Marie will be marked tonight by her attendance at the Chicago Opera Company's performance of "Aida," as the guest of Ira Nelson Morris, Roumanian consul general in Chicago. A reception will not follow.

Her mother's grand particular friend reports from abroad that she had declined to make arrangements for a Roumanian loan with American bankers.

CONSUL QUITS WHEN "FIREWORKS" BEGIN

Cleveland, Nov. 16—Dimitrie D. Dimancesco, Roumanian consul at Cleveland, will greet Queen Marie on her arrival here Monday, but his greeting will be only that of a personal friend who has known the queen since her childhood.

The official welcome for the consulate will be extended by Ivan C. Popovici, recently of the New York Roumanian consulate, who has come here to replace Dimancesco. The consul resigned his post in a rage, after a hectic dispute with the local welcoming committee, because, he charged, Roumanians were being ignored in the plans for a state dinner to the queen, and because the city officials were using the queen's visit as a "political barbecue."

The fireworks over the queen's visit flared up again last night in city council meeting when Councilman Peter Witt, militant Democrat, insisted upon reading a letter protesting the celebration of the queen's arrival in Cleveland, sent by Hungarian citizens. The letter condemned the Roumanian government in vigorous terms and described in detail alleged atrocities which the Hungarians claimed were inflicted upon Hungarian women by Roumanian soldiers.

Mayor Marshal forbade Witt to read the letter and prevented the doughty councilman from carrying out his program only by summoning a sergeant-at-arms and threatening to throw Witt forcibly out of the council chamber.

Meanwhile, plans went merrily on for a formal reception, a state dinner and special luncheon for women only, to be given in the queen's honor here.

Italian admiration for America is tempered by the fact that Americans cut up spaghetti in short lengths to eat it.

Local Doctor Skeptical of Cancer Cure
New York Surgeon Sees Good Results

Dr. J. Willis Amey Says No Doubt as to Microbic Origin of Disease

NEW YORK, Nov. 16—"From what I have seen, the Glover anti-toxin is the more for cancer than any other treatment known to me, and when used in connection with surgery, a large percentage of good results can be obtained even in what appears to be hopeless cases."

In these words Dr. J. Willis Amey, one of this city's most eminent surgeons, today expressed himself in an exclusive interview with the International News Service on the efficacy and value of the recently discovered Glover anti-toxin for the treatment of cancer.

Dr. Amey declared that he had no doubt as to the microbic origin of the disease.

"From three years observation with patients I have treated, and from the observation of other physicians interested in this work," said the surgeon, "I am now thoroughly convinced that cancer is due to micro-organisms."

Test All Treatments

"From your own study of the anti-toxin and its results, would you consider that there is a possibility of permanently curing cancer with the Glover treatment?" Dr. Amey was asked.

"In the first place," he replied, "the word 'cure' should not be used in connection with medicine. We know of no medical treatment that will cure every case in every stage of a disease."

"You would be disposed to experiment with other treatments and you you believe that every treatment, having once passed the test of two or three reputable physicians, should be given a fair clinical test?"

"I firmly believe that any treatment holding out promise of relief for cancer patients should be tested," said Dr. Amey.

The surgeon said that he could see no reason why the Glover treatment should not come into common use. He declared that there was a limitation to the quantity of anti-toxin which could be produced.

Tells of Cases

"The percentage of horses inoculated that product anti-toxin of good potency is very small," said Dr. Amey, "but sufficient can be produced for the treatment of all cases."

"Were not many of the cases treated by you with the Glover anti-toxin in the last stages of the disease abandoned as hopeless from the point of view of their own physicians?" Dr. Amey was asked.

"All but three of my 60 cases were regarded as inopperable," replied the surgeon. "Ten died. Twenty per cent of the cases are now symptom free and nearly all are showing improvement. Since I began this work, more than three years ago, the anti-toxin has been furnished to me, free of expense. The same is true of the other clinics. Up to date, it has been my pleasure to administer to patients without cost to them either for the anti-toxin or my services."

Common Property

Dr. Amey said that the anti-toxin was now common property and could be produced by anyone trained in the work, the method of production being fully explained by Dr. Glover in the November issue of the Canada Lancet and Practitioner.

In conclusion, Dr. Amey said:

"Naturally, we know that these statements will be received by many with skepticism as in the experiences of Lister, Pasteur, Oliver and Wendell Holmes, Semmelweiss, Loeffler with his diphtheria organism, and Harvey, when he first demonstrated that it was blood and not air that circulated in the arteries and veins.

"But to those who may adopt a skeptical attitude, we point out that the present conditions of our clinical patients, as compared with their condition when the anti-toxin was first administered, is, we believe, sufficient proof of its efficacy and thjapeutic value.

"These cases are on record and thorough investigation can be made."

INVESTIGATE CURE BY ELECTRICITY

Washington, Nov. 16—Cancer cure by exposure of the patient to extremely high frequency electrical current is under investigation by the United States Public Health Service, Dr. C. C. Pierce, acting surgeon general, announced today.

Recognizing cancer as the greatest menace to life in America, the public health service has launched an exhaustive study of the treatment and cure of this disease.

The electrical treatment investigation is in charge of Dr. J. D. Schwerschewsky and is being conducted at Harvard.

THIEVES TAKE DOCTOR'S CASE FROM AUTOMOBILE

Dr. F. E. Mahla Reports Theft; Robes and Motormeter Stolen

Thieves operating in Marion are determined to supply all of their needs, including remedies for their aches and pains.

This was indicated when Dr. F. E. Mahla reported that his medicine case had been stolen from his automobile while it was parked on N. Prospect-st Monday night near the Schwinger building. The theft occurred while the doctor was attending a dance at Schwinger's hall.

W. J. Brown, 412 S. Grand-st, informed the police that a motor meter was taken from his automobile near the Marion Steam Shovel plant early Monday night and George Day reported that two robes were stolen from his car while it was parked on Bellefontaine-av.

Local police officials are continuing their investigation of the burglary which occurred at the First Presbyterian Church, Saturday night, but state that no promising clews have been obtained.

Dr. Rhu Claims Success of New Serum Not Established

Until further information on the reported discovery of a cancer cure, told of in a dispatch from New York yesterday, is given through official medical channels, Marion physicians and surgeons will remain skeptical of the belief that a cure for cancer finally has been found. This was indicated today by Dr. A. Rhu, Marion surgeon, and fellow of the American College of Surgeons.

So far Dr. Rhu says, there has been no announcement in medical and surgical journals of the discovery of the cancer cure. Dr. Rhu hopes that the experiments which lead to the announcement yesterday of the cancer cure have been successful in isolating the cancer germs, and in developing an anti-toxin, but he recalls the many similar announcements of a cancer cure and of discoveries of serums and anti-toxins of other diseases, which have been made prematurely, and before the success of the treatments was fully established.

"No Proof Given"

Dr. Rhu's opinion coincided with the opinion of other prominent surgeons in the country. Officials of the American Medical Association in Chicago said today that they knew of the experiments being made and that so far no proof of the isolation of the cancer germ had been given them.

The experiments in cancer cure which are claimed to have been successful have been under the direction of Dr. T. J. Glover, of Toronto, Canada. The serum developed to give treatment for the disease has been named "Glover's anti-toxin."

Dr. Morris Fishbein, head of the American Medical Association public relation bureau, said:

"We have been given no proof of the isolation of a cancer germ. We are familiar with the claims of Dr. Glover, but in the opinion of the Association, cancer is still a medical mystery."

The isolation of the cancer germ, or definite proof that cancer is caused by a germ, has been the stumbling block in the progress of the treatment of cancer. Dr. Rhu leans to the theory that there is no cancer germ, but the disease is a "constitutional disease" caused by a general condition, instead of a single organism.
